Quarrel over watch leads to assault, suicide

small island in the Columbia River midway between Wallula and Umatilla was the scene of an attempted murder and suicide in April Switzler's Island was the property of John B. Switzler, who took up residence on the island in 1882 and built a house, barn and outbuildings, and planted 40 acres of orchards. The orchards were abandoned in 1894, however, when flooding of the Columbia washed out most of the trees. At 105 feet above sea level and 25 feet above the river's high water mark, the island contained about 750 acres of farmable land.

The ownership of the island was the subject of multiple legal battles, and in 1908 squatters had taken over part of the property. Two men, Fred Deitz and Joseph Paterman, were living in one of the houses on the island. Paterman had returned to the island on April 10 after several days of trying to find work. It was then Deitz's turn to look for a job, but he refused to leave his watch for Paterman, and a quarrel broke out. Deitz had just stepped out of the house they shared when Paterman appeared behind him with a shotgun and fired at point blank range, hitting him in the shoulder. He then loaded Deitz's unconscious body into a wheelbarrow. intending to dump him in the river.

Deitz soon came to, and a knock-down drag-out fight ensued during which the wounded man was severely beaten. Paterman then walked away, leaving Deitz on the ground, with the intent to get a hatchet and finish the job. When Paterman returned Deitz pleaded piteously for his life, and Paterman agreed to spare him. He placed Deitz in the shade of a tree and announced his intent to kill himself.

After Paterman left, Deitz made his way to another house on the island, where he told the story of the attack. He was taken by boat to Umatilla, and while on the water they heard Paterman fire two shots, and later saw the house go up in

The wounded man was taken by train to Pendleton, and was treated while en route by Dr. J.A. Best, who happened to be on the train. It was believed Deitz would survive the brutal attack.

Searchers returned to the island and found the burned body of Paterman in the ashes of the house the two men had shared. Paterman was known in Pendleton by the director of the Salvation Army, who said Paterman had sought shelter there earlier in the month and had been angry at Deitz over $50 he had lent to his partner, and what he considered Deitz's general mistreatment.

Indications that Uncle Sam is actively preparing for the possibility of war with Germany is a letter of instructions received yesterday by Peter Swartz, ship fitter first class, who is in charge of the local naval recruiting station. He was advised urgently to use all his endeavors to enlist men of naval experience either in the active service again or in the naval reserves. These naval reserves will be called at once in case the United States determines to mobilize her naval forces. If they are not called they will receive certain pay for placing themselves on the reserve list. It is estimated that there are 20,000 men in the United States who have served in the navy and who are eligible to serve again.

prominent Pacific Northwest high-lift irrigation specialist, G.T. (Bud) Newcomb, Ketchum, Idaho, said in Hermiston Friday that he would like to have an opportunity to quote a price on pumping water from the Columbia River into Cold Springs Reservoir northeast of Hermiston. Newcomb said that in making a "rough" estimate, he believes he could develop a project to provide supplemental irrigation water for $8 to $10 an acre-foot. The 50,000 acre-foot Cold Springs Reservoir is an off-stream storage facility that regulates a portion of the water supply to the Hermiston Irrigation District that irrigates approximately 7,000 acres. Many farmers in the Hermiston Irrigation District have been complaining in recent years because of a shortage of water in mid-summer and for the balance of the growing season

Its bark may be worse than its bite, but computer programmers aren't taking any chances when it comes to Michelangelo, a ruinous virus concocted by an unknown computer hacker. Michelangelo threatens to wreak havoc on up to five million IBM-compatible personal computers nationwide on Friday. "People are rather panicky about it," admitted David Zehner, a technician at Computer Processing Unlimited in Hermiston. The virus — which effectively writes over a program, leaving random characters in its wake — has prompted a flurry of anxious phone calls to the store. And for good reason. "We had one case that went off early — totally formatted all his equipment, Zehner said.

Austria: Man tries to enter courthouse with bag of roaches

VIENNA (AP) — Security guards at an Austrian court might need to put up a sign at the screening gate to let the public know about another item prohibited on the premises — cockroaches. State broadcaster ORF said Wednesday that security personnel in the western city of Linz turned away a man a day earlier after he tried to enter the court building with a sack full of the six-legged pests

ORF did not say why the man had the roaches or what he planned to do with them.
