

BUCKS: Newsom has big second half, Pendleton shoots 46 percent

bursts throughout the game, but Pendleton (16-5) had them when it counted the most. The Buckaroos were the ones that started out of the gates fast on Wednesday, holding a 14-6 lead after one quarter.

After Pendleton built its largest lead at 19-6 just 30 seconds into the second, Crescent Valley began to make its first surge. The Raiders got within four at 23-19 with 4:10 left in the first half and then trailed by six at halftime (29-23). Crescent Valley continued its push in the third quarter with six straight points to tie for the first time at 29-29 at the 6:45 mark and then took its first lead of the game at 39-37 with 2:39 left in the third.

From that point on, the Bucks and Raiders exchanged the lead five times and knotted up another three times. But the Buckaroos were able to hit free throws down the stretch — something that plagued the team in Tuesday’s loss to Churchill — and hang on for the victory.

“Crescent’s a great team with some great athletes that put a lot of pressure on you in a lot of different ways,” Tedder said, “but we’re fighters and we’ve been that way all season. Our ability to maintain the level of energy that we play with allows us to make plays down the stretch when other teams are tired a little more fatigued in their decision making and we just keep hammering away.

“I think this is the legacy this team will leave behind is how hard and incredible amount of effort they put out there every night.”

Pendleton shot 46 percent (18-of-39) for the game and had three more guys finish in double figures behind Morris. Caden Smith had 13 points to go with eight rebounds and six assists on a relatively quiet day, while Jerome and Newsom each had 10 points.

Newsom was a big player for the Buckaroos in the second half, where he had eight of his 10 points and chipped in four offensive rebounds to help the Buckaroos off the bench. Tedder called the sophomore’s effort on one of the biggest stages of the season “Incredible.”

“He’s gotten so much better throughout the course of last summer and this season,” Tedder said, “and his ability to use his length to get rebounds and he pushes the floor so well to put pressure on the defense in transition.

It’s pretty special and he’s going to be a special kid for the next two years for us and today was somewhat of a coming out party for him.”

Sean Little led Crescent Valley with 16 points, while Tariq Harris added 12 and Talanoa Hufanga had 11.

Pendleton will now have a day of preparation before facing off against No. 4 Summit in the fourth/sixth place game at Gill Coliseum on Friday morning. Tedder and the Buckaroos were able to watch the second half of Summit and La Salle Prep in the other consolation game and believes his team will be ready to go.

“They’re a good team, they’re strong, physical, have a big man down low and a couple of good guards,” he said. “I think it’s a good match-up for us. They’re challenging in different ways, but so are we, so we’ll go out there and battle one more time.”

Tip-off for Summit and Pendleton is set for 10:45 a.m.
