DEAR ABBY

One way to measure success is how your kids describe you

Dear Abby: My son and his wife just gave us the news that they are expecting their first child...

I remember seeing a short poem in your column called "Success." Could you reprint it? I'd like to clip it and give it to the parents-to-be.

Dear Marie: I'm glad to oblige, and I hope your son and daughter-in-law will enjoy it.

It was penned by Martin Buxbaum, a noted poet from Maryland who passed away in 1991. It's included in my "Keepers" booklet...

SUCCESS You can use any measure When you're speaking of success.

You can measure it in fancy home, Expensive car or dress. But the measure of your real success Is the one you cannot spend.

It's the way your kids describe you When they're talking to a friend.

"Keepers" covers subjects ranging from temptation to forgiveness, animals, children and human nature. It can be ordered by sending your name and mailing address...

share him with the world, but he doesn't love me the same.

We have been together more than 29 years. He says he just wants to have fun. Since I'm not interested in swinging with him and others, should I just get a divorce?

I'm a 51-year-old woman who is still very sexually active, yet I am not enough for him. I have tried everything. I'm tired. Dear Abby, please help.

Dear Doesn't Want To Share Him: Because your husband wants an open marriage and you don't, it appears the two of you have reached an impasse.

Your husband craves the one thing no one woman can give him — variety. It has nothing to do with your not being "enough." For this reason you should consult an attorney about your options.

DAYS GONE BY

100 Years Ago From the East Oregonian March 15, 1917

Tong gunmen this morning about 11 o'clock chased Billy Eng, president of the Chinese Young Men's Association, down Adams avenue in La Grande and murdered him in front of the postoffice.
