PUBLIC SAFETY LOG

THURSDAY

1:24 a.m. - A resident of Southeast Park Place, Irrigon, reported a male in a sweater and hat looked in her window and ran off.
 7:12 a.m. - The Umatilla County Sheriff's Office received a tip that someone was living by a swimming hole on the Umatilla River near Rieth.
 10:29 a.m. - Multiple callers reported a big black bull on the loose near Honeybunzz Hideout, 1201 Sixth St., Umatilla.
 10:37 a.m. - And cows were in the way at Yoakum and Stage Gulch roads, Pendleton.
 10:43 a.m. - A male appeared to be driving an orange vehicle from the passenger seat on N. 1ST S/E Main St. in Hermiston.
 4:54 p.m. - A caller at the Oregon Trail Library, 444 N. Main St., Heppner, reported someone was in the old schoolhouse there and moved and took items. The library board would inventory what was in the school house.
 5:10 p.m. - The Morrow County Sheriff's Office began an investigation into vandalism after a caller on Linden Way, Heppner, reported someone, possibly two neighbor boys ages 8-10, broke the windows in her shop.
 10:07 p.m. - Players of the game "fugitive" told the Morrow County Sheriff's Office they would hold a game around Heppner that night. Fugitive, according to Wikipedia, combines elements of outdoor games, such as cops and robbers and capture the flag.
 11:14 p.m. - An intoxicated male disturbed residents on Pendleton's South Main Street.
 11:23 p.m. - Umatilla police received a 9-1-1 call about a disturbance with a female yelling at The Links Senior Apartments, 310 Klickitat St. The anonymous caller stated "it doesn't sound good," then gave no more information.

FRIDAY

1:09 a.m. - Hermiston police received a report of a male with a flashlight looking into homes near the Good Shepherd Child Care Center, 610 N.W. 11th St. Police did not find anyone suspicious.
 1:46 a.m. - At least three men fought at the Riverside Sports Bar & Lounge, 1501 Sixth St., Umatilla, and one ended up bloodied. Staff at the strip bar said a customer reported the fracas.

ARRESTS, CITATIONS

*An Oregon State Police trooper recognized a man fishing at the Irrigon marina and found he had a Umatilla County warrant for failure to appear on a 2015 trespassing offense. The trooper cited Keovongkot Khammone, 72, of Pasco, Washington, for the failure to appear and for angling without a non-resident angling license.
 *Pendleton police cited Cody L. Jenner Kunkle, 18, of Pendleton, for driving under the influence of intoxicants (controlled substance).

Golden exit common practice for the departed

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't let the vault door hit you on the way out. Getting forced out of a job is painful, but a couple (dozen) million dollars help salve the wound. The latest big name to get a big payment with a bye-bye from the boss is Bill O'Reilly. The longtime Fox News host is in line to get up to $25 million, according to media reports, after a string of sexual-harassment allegations led to his ouster. He joins the long list of executives and bold-faced names who have grabbed handsome payouts that have become standard operating procedure for companies to hand out. The reasons for departure can range from the mundane, such as a CEO simply being ineffective in boosting the stock price, to the salacious, with accusations of improper behavior. Here's a look at some other recent departures of big names and what they received as they exited, according to regulatory filings and media reports:

 • Roger Ailes, Fox News, $40 million.
 It was only last summer that the other man who helped build Fox News into a ratings behemoth had his own departure from the company following allegations of sexual harassment. Ailes was chairman and CEO of Fox News and, with O'Reilly as a high-profile host, pushed it to become the most-watched U.S. cable-news channel.
 • Jeff Smisek, United Continental, $36.8 million.
 The CEO atop United Airlines stepped down in 2015 amid an investigation into whether it flew a route between Newark, New Jersey, and Columbia, South Carolina, to curry favor with the chairman of the agency that operates New York-area airports. He received $4.9 million in cash severance, along with millions more in stock grants. He also received lifetime flight benefits.

 • Marissa Mayer, Yahoo, $23 million.
 The woman brought in to save the struggling internet giant may soon be on the way out after brokering a deal to break it up. Verizon is buying Yahoo's email service and other websites, and the deal is expected to close by the end of June. The remaining part of Yahoo, which is also the far more valuable one, will be turned over to a new company called Alibaba. If Mayer doesn't have a job afterward, she'll be in line to get a severance package, which was most recently valued at $23 million.

 • Philippe Dauman, Viacom, $58 million.
 The former CEO of the entertainment giant was pushed out last summer following a bitter battle for control of the company's board. The $58 million severance payment doesn't include millions more paid to Dauman in pro-rated bonus money, vested stock options and other awards.
 • John Stumpf, Wells Fargo, zero.
 When the CEO stepped down from the company last year as the uproar about its aggressive sales tactics echoed in Capitol Hill, the bank said he would receive no severance pay. The board also reclaimed millions of dollars in pay made to him.
