A smashing uppercut to the high cost of living was delivered yesterday by the hen which was the piece de resistance on the dinner table of Mr. and Mrs. W.N. Matlock. When preparing the chicken for the oven Mrs. Matlock found three gold nuggets in the crop, and her husband, having followed the mining game in Alaska, recognized them at once for their true character. He secured an appraisal of them and found that they were valued at $3.50. The chicken was purchased at the Oregon Market for less than a third that amount. Now Wes is trying to trace the origin of the chicken with a view of staking out a claim.

"Housing" troubles today colored the strike of Local 3-8 of the International Woodworkers of America against Kerns Company at Pilot Rock. A union shop steward and picket, Robert Brunick, 27, Pilot Rock, has been arrested and charged with painting "house of scabs" and other statements on the home of Paul Abels, a union trustee. The union revealed plans to re-paint Abels' house today. But Blaine Knopp, president of Kerns Company, said today workers of the firm planned to paint the house. They had been ready to begin painting Friday when they were asked to wait until lawmen completed gathering evidence.

Hermiston recorded the high temperature for the nation Wednesday — 99 degrees — and Pendleton registered record highs both at the airport and downtown. Hermiston's near century mark on Wednesday followed a 95 on Tuesday and 93 Monday. The high in Pendleton Wednesday reached 95 downtown and 93 at the airport. The previous record for May 6 was 91 downtown in 1890 and 84 at the airport in 1987.

Donkey offers finals stress relief at Montana State

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — A donkey named Oliver joined several therapy dogs offering stress relief during Finals Week at Montana State University in Bozeman. The 8-year-old brown and white donkey was standing inside the front entrance of the university library on Tuesday. Owner Stephanie Bar tells the Bozeman Daily Chronicle that since it was Oliver's first time at MSU, she wanted to make sure he got a lot of attention.

Students petted Oliver, hugged him and took selfies. In another part of the library, students sat on the floor and played with dogs provided by volunteers with Intermountain Therapy Animals.

In Chicago, McDonald did his duty at a White Sox game, skipping Wrigley Field because the Cubs are longtime rivals of the Mets. "I know people might think it's weird, and if it were anyone else's ashes, I'd agree," McDonald said. "But for Roy, this is the perfect tribute to a plumber and a baseball fan and just a brilliant, wild guy."

Hank Riegel, of Waterloo, New York, said his brother would appreciate the offbeat gesture.

"He'd be like, 'Oh, yeah, do that,'" Riegel said. "He would definitely approve of it. Never once did Roy follow the rules."

Twin sisters deliver baby boys on same day just hours apart

BRICK TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Twin sisters in New Jersey have delivered babies on the same day.

The Asbury Park Press reports 32-year-old fraternal twins Danielle Grant and Kim Abraham gave birth to baby boys on Friday. The sisters decided to have labor induced after their identical due dates of April 22 passed.

Grant and Abraham delivered their sons, Roman and Aaron, a little less than four hours apart.

The Toms River natives say their pregnancies were coincidences. Picking an induction date was the only thing that was consciously chosen.

Grant and Abraham say they're very close and their husbands have become close as well so their sons will be like brothers.

The sisters plan to hold joint birthday parties for their sons and dress them in matching outfits.

Friend flushes
baseball fan's remains down
ballpark toilets

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York City man is on a mission to flush the cremated remains of his lifelong friend — a plumber — down ballpark toilets around the country.

Tom McDonald tells The New York Times that it's a fitting tribute for Roy Riegel. The two baseball fans were childhood friends in Queens, not far from — wait for it — Flushing Meadows, where the Mets play.

Like baseball, this endeavor has rules. The game has to be in progress when McDonald sprinkles the ashes into the toilet from a little plastic bottle.

So far, he's done the deed at 16 stadiums.

Riegel also was a music fan: In Cleveland, McDonald flushed ashes at
