PENDLETON UAS range may lure massive firefighting drone

By GEORGE PLAIVEN
 East Oregonian

The manager of Pendleton's Unmanned Aerial Systems Range said he expects to hear next week if the Flyox I, a massive Spanish-made drone designed to assist with firefighting, will run test flights at the Eastern Oregon Regional Airport.

The Flyox I has a maximum takeoff weight of 8,378 pounds with a 45-foot wingspan and 145 mph cruising speed. It is being developed to assist in firefighting.

Darryl Abling said the drone manufacturer, Singular Aircraft, is considering Pendleton along with fellow Oregon UAS ranges in Warm Springs and Tillamook. The final decision could be made as early as Wednesday.

"This could be a huge win for the Oregon ranges and the city of Pendleton, if it comes here," Abling said.

Singular Aircraft has partnered with a Canadian company called Unmanned Aircraft International in its effort to gain U.S. certification for the Flyox I, a move that Abling said would essentially open the door to marketing the product worldwide.

Abling said he had a chance meeting with representatives of Unmanned Aircraft International at the recent Association for Unmanned Vehicle Systems International trade show in Dallas. The company was looking for U.S. airspace, Abling said, and decided to do site surveys of all three ranges in Oregon.

"They were very happy with Pendleton and the support they could get here," Abling said.

Flyox I would be the largest drone to fly at the Pendleton UAS Range — much larger than the ArcticShark, which was unveiled to the public in March. Flyox I has a maximum takeoff weight of 8,378 pounds with a 45-foot wingspan and 145 mph cruising speed. A Cessna, for comparison, weighs about 2,000 pounds.

The vehicle is designed to drop water on forest fires, and has a payload of more than 4,000 pounds. It may be customized in the future for other uses as well, including agriculture and general cargo deliveries.

Abling said he expects to have a conference call with Singular Aircraft sometime between next Wednesday and Friday, when the range will receive final word.

"They absolutely liked our capabilities," Abling said. "When we were in Dallas, we had a lot of people come up. Our name and reputation are definitely getting out there."

Pendleton open burning ends Monday

PENDLETON — The Pendleton Fire Department declared that open burning ends Monday. The ban applies to the city, Rieth Water District and the fire districts of Lower McKay, McKay Dam, and Riverside. Pendleton does not allow burn barrels within city limits, but the ban does not apply to burn barrels in the fire districts. However, people only may burn in barrels on "green days," according to the statement from the fire department. To find out if a day is "green," call the Umatilla County burn line at 541-278-6397, or visit the county website at <http://www.co.umatilla.or.us/>.

Open burning is any outdoor burning, backyard burning, and piles of yard debris. Burning stumps, field burns, burning trash, commercial waste, construction debris, and bonfires require permits available from the Pendleton Fire Department at no charge.

For more information visit the Pendleton Fire Department at 911 S.W. Court Ave. or www.pendleton.or.us/fire-ambulance.

Corrections

The June 2 article "EOTEC will hire manager" incorrectly stated Sheriff Terry Rowan was present at the joint meeting between the Hermiston City Council and Umatilla County Commission. He was not.

One of the businesses involved in the bathroom remodel in Friday's "Tips and Kicks" column, Sheets Painting LLC, was incorrectly identified. The East Oregonian works hard to be accurate and sincerely regrets any errors. If you notice a mistake in the paper, please call 541-966-0818.
