

NBA FINALS: Golden State used 27-4 run to take charge

same lead to the Warriors a round earlier with Oklahoma City.

“We learned from everything we’ve been through,” Curry said during the trophy celebration. “Our perspective, being blessed to play on this stage three years in a row, it’s for these fans, for our organization, for these families. To be back here, bring of Larry back home, I’m just excited to do something special. I’m ready to do it again.”

James, who in 2012 with Miami beat the Thunder in Durant’s only other Finals, wound up with 41 points, 13 rebounds and eight assists.

“I left everything on the floor every game,” James said after averaging a triple-double in his eighth Finals.

Kyrie Irving followed up his 40-point gem in Friday’s Game 4 with 26 points but shot 9 for 22.

This time, King James gave way to KD, who was the NBA Finals MVP 10 years after being picked second in the NBA draft behind Greg Oden.

“Well I’m not happy he won his first, I’m not happy at all,” James said. “... Getting that first championship for me was like having my first son.”

Durant drove left, right and down the middle, knocked down 3-pointers, dished and dunked. He hit a 17-foot fadeaway over James early in the fourth quarter, then assisted on a 3-pointer by Andre Iguodala the next time down as the Warriors pulled away.

Iguodala, the 2015 Finals MVP, came up big again with his 2017 post-season-best 20 points off the bench in a testy, tightly called finale to this trilogy Finals that everyone had stamped on the calendar from the moment Durant departed Oklahoma City to join Curry and Co. last July.

The Warriors won in 2015 before the Cavs made their historic comeback last year. Then it was Golden State’s time again, with Durant as the prized addition.

Durant shot 14 for 20 and Curry — the two-time reigning MVP who took a backseat as the new big star got acclimated — finished off a brilliant postseason. Not to mention a healthy one after his 2016 injuries.

Draymond Green stayed on the court in a game that featured three technicals on one play 3:08 before halftime. David West fought for the ball with Irving, then they got tangled up and Tristan Thompson entered the fray and he and West went at each other face-to-face. West, Thompson and J.R. Smith received techs after a replay review.

Green had sat out this very game a year ago, suspended because of flagrant foul point accumulation after he swiped at James’ groin in Game 4. He had 10 points, 12 rebounds and five assists in the clincher.

“I had a letdown last year,” Green said. “If KD was the consolation prize to lose, thanks for that loss, and we’re champs this year.”

With a much-improved bench led by Iguodala, JaVale McGee, Shaun Livingston and West, that “Strength In Numbers” slogan that has become such a staple the past two seasons shined all season long, from Durant’s 19-game absence late in the regular season with a left knee injury to assistant coach Mike Brown stepping in for 11 postseason games to lead the way while Steve Kerr was ailing.

During the trophy ceremony, Kerr said, “I want to say a special thank you to Mike Brown and my whole coaching staff.” The reigning NBA Coach of the Year returned for Game 2 of the Finals following a six-week absence from the bench.

On Monday, Golden State used a 27-4 second-quarter run to take charge — just after it appeared Durant should have been called for a third foul on a basket by James — and got to celebrate right at home in Oakland surrounded by a deafening home crowd waving yellow rally towels and holding up phones to shoot video and photos as the final minute of the clock ticked away.

The buzzer sounded and gold confetti began to fall.

The Warriors became the first Bay Area team to capture a championship at home since the A’s finished the Los Angeles Dodgers in Game 5 of the 1974 World Series.

A year ago, these Warriors fell short after a record-setting season that included a 24-0 start and 73 victories at the end to break the 1995-96 Chicago Bulls’ wins mark.

Durant even hugged James. And that was just the start.

Still on the court, he and Curry looked into each other’s eyes, did a little shake then slapped hands several times.

Two playful superstars who found a way to coexist through all the questions and constant scrutiny, together and smiling as champions.

MARINERS:

a replay review that reversed the original call. Gimenez made his fifth appearance of the year to relieve a beleaguered bullpen.

That’s because the Twins, despite their perch in first place in the AL Central, have allowed 10-plus runs an astounding 10 times already this season. That’s two games in a row, too, following a 13-8 loss at San Francisco on Sunday afternoon. They lost 12-3 in Seattle to the Mariners just six days ago.

Zunino and Carlos Ruiz were the previous pair to hit consecutive homers for the Mariners, also against the Twins last week during a 6-5 comeback victory.

Brian Dozier had three hits and Joe Mauer drove in two runs for the Twins, who lost their fifth straight home game.

KING FELIX

Mariners right-hander Felix Hernandez will get at least one more rehab start with Triple-A Tacoma, after a successful turn on Sunday.

“We want to get him up to 80, 85 pitches so when he comes back we feel good about running him out to 100,” manager Scott Servais said. “I’m really excited he threw the ball much better and kind of got his rhythm going out there on the mound.”

TRAINER’S ROOM

Mariners’ SS Jean Segura will try to run on his injured right ankle before the game Tuesday, an important test before he can return from the DL.

UP NEXT

Mariners’ RHP Christian Bergman (3-3, 4.03 ERA) takes the mound Tuesday after taking the loss to the Twins in his previous turn last week.

Twins’ RHP Kyle Gibson (3-4, 6.52 ERA) starts the second game of the series, having beaten Bergman and the Mariners on Thursday in his best outing this season.
