Munoz extends lead to three strokes at Greenbrier Classic

Associated Press

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. — PGA Tour rookie Sebastian Munoz has found a comfortable routine at The Greenbrier Classic — go play golf, then watch a movie at night.

After catching “Ferris Bueller’s Day Off” following an opening-round 61, Munoz kept it going Friday, shooting a 3-under 67 for a three-stroke lead over Ben Martin and Hudson Swafford heading into the weekend on the Old White TPC.

On Friday night, his plans were the same.

“I’m here with one of my best buddies, so we’re just going to hang out and watch a movie and be ready for tomorrow,” Munoz said.

Munoz has been in this situation before. At the St. Jude Classic last month, Munoz was tied for the lead through 36 holes, but he played the final two rounds in 11 over and finished tied for 60th.

“I feel like Memphis taught me that maybe I was caring too much, trying to hit too many perfect shots all the time,” Munoz said. “(I’ll) just take those past experiences and use them this week.”

The 24-year-old Colombian played his college golf at North Texas and said he got a wake-up call when his coach threatened to take away his scholarship for his senior year. Then, former college teammate Carlos Ortiz won three times in his first season on the Web.com Tour in 2014.

“I talked to him and was like, ‘Hey, man, I know you’re good, but come on. Like, I can get you sometimes,’” Munoz said. “So that really helped me kind of push through and realize I was good as well.”

Munoz won the Conference USA individual title in 2015 and earned his PGA Tour card through the Web.com Tour last year. He’s still looking for his first top-10 finish.

Starting his second round on the back nine, Munoz birdied four of his first seven holes, making three putts of over 20 feet. After two bogeys on the front nine, he made a 13-footer for birdie from the fringe on the par-4 seventh. He was at 12-under 128.

No first-round leader has won at Old White TPC since the tournament debuted in 2010. Munoz’s closest challengers all have victories on tour.

Swafford, who hit 17 of 18 greens in regulation Friday, won the Career-Builder Challenge in January and has two other top 10 finishes this season.

Martin, who won in Las Vegas in 2014, is coming off his first top 10 finish of the year last week at the Quicken Loans National.

Martin shot 67 and Swafford had a 66. Both were at 9 under.

Davis Love III, seeking to become the oldest-ever winner on the PGA Tour, followed up his first-round 63 with a 69. He was at 8 under, along with defending champion Danny Lee (68) and Russell Henley (64).

Phil Mickelson accomplished one thing he never managed with long-time caddie Jim “Bones” Mackay on the bag — he made the cut at The Greenbrier Classic. He did not play the weekend in three previous starts.

Mickelson had five bogeys and three birdies to shoot 72 and make the cut on the number at 1 under.

Sebastian Munoz watches his missed birdie putt on the 17th hole during the second round of The Greenbrier Classic golf tournament Friday, July 7, 2017, in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va.

Slama, Ronne win Junior Am titles

Slama defeated Victoria Gailey (Tigard) 4 and 3 in the championship to win her second Oregon Junior Amateur Girls’ title.

Gailey had eliminated Pendleton’s Haley Greb from the match-play bracket 2 and 1 in the first round after Greb tied for third in the stroke play portion of the tournament held at Bandon Dunes Golf Course.

Ronne earned his first Oregon Junior Amateur title by defeating Nate Stember (Portland) 4 and 3.

MARINERS:

Saturday as DH in an Arizona League game, with an August return possible. ... RHP Shae Simmons (elbow), acquired in an off-season trade with Atlanta, could join the Mariners after the All-Star break.

UP NEXT

Athletics: Chris Smith is set to make his first major league start at 36 years old, which would make him the oldest pitcher in A’s history to make his big league starting debut. Smith has made 164 minor league starts and 64 relief appearances in the majors, including 13 last season with Oakland.

Mariners: Right-hander Andrew Moore (1-1, 3.60) makes his third major league start. He has allowed three runs in each of his two starts, lasting seven and then eight innings. Moore has given up three home runs.

HODGEN: Brock, Seavert key win for DFM/Pratt softball

Stahl allowed just two hits, struck out four and walked three.

Chichester came in to relieve Stahl in the fifth and ran into trouble after recording two quick outs.

The next two batters walked, then a hit batter and two more walks made it 4-3 before Chris Large came in to get a fly out to end the threat.

Hodgen (11-12) tacked on five more runs in the bottom of the fifth, and Large allowed one hit in the sixth.

Quinn Doherty, Avery Deutz and Chichester led Hodgen with two RBI apiece, and Bower, Russell and Naughton scored twice.

DIAMONDJAXX 17, WEST VALLEY YAKIMA 5

The Pepsi Diamondjazz combined 10 hits with 11 walks to walk all over West Valley Yakima in five innings on Friday.

Most of the Diamondjazz’s production came late in the game as the team plated six runs in the fourth inning and eight more in the fifth to come from behind for the win.

Cooper Roberts led the offense going 2 for 3 with three RBI and two runs, Ty Beers was 2 for 3 with two RBI and two runs, Greyson Clark was 1 for 2 with two RBI and Tanner Sweek was 2 for 3 with one RBI.

Nat Hunsaker got the start and lasted two innings allowing five runs (three earned) on four hits, and Tucker Zander got the win after two innings of relief work with no runs allowed on four hits. Beers pitched the fifth inning and struck out two.

SOFTBALL

DFM/PRAATT 5, CRUSHER

Allie Brock struck out 11 in a complete-game performance, and Jaycee Seavert went 4 for 4 with a two-run home run as USA Explosion DFM/Pratt beat Crusher Fast Pitch 5-0 on Friday in an ASA softball game.

Brock threw more than 75 percent of her 86 pitches for strikes and had no walks. She did hit one batter, but didn’t allow a runner past second base the entire game.

DFM/Pratt (14-2-1) scored its first run in the bottom of the third inning when Katie Bradt singled on a line drive to left field to allow Seavert to score from second.

Brock (2 for 3) followed with a double to give them runners on second and third with two outs, and Madi Plew (2 for 2) made it 3-0 with a single that scored Bradt and courtesy runner Ellie Lankford.

Seavert hit her home run in the bottom of the sixth to follow a bunt single by Kara Gooderham, and Brock retired Crusher in order in the seventh with a pop-up and two strikeouts.

HALL OF FAME: Nooy quarterbacked Buckaroos in early 2000’s

Rick Schimmel, Kenny Melton, Kenny Kuehl, Tex Ayler, Lew Beck, and the 1982-83 Buckaroo football team were those inducted.

Bullington, then Kelli Chandler-Read dominated the basketball court over her four-year career in Pendleton as a four-time all-conference player and two-time conference player of the year, earning herself a basketball scholarship to Portland State University. She said on Friday that she could have never imagined having the career that she did and earn a spot in this Hall of Fame.

“I never played for this type of recognition,” she said. “When I played it was about the team and what we represented to others. So being able to have this and share it with people is pretty special.”

After leaving Pendleton and Portland State, Kelli started a career with Microsoft for nearly 15 years before deciding to move back to her hometown six years ago. Recently, Bullington and her husband opened the Oregon Grain Growers Distillery at 511 SE Court Avenue in Pendleton while continuing to work as the human resources director at Blue Mountain Community College.

“We keep busy,” she joked, “but we’re thrilled to be back.”

Like Bullington, Cimmiyotti had a similar reaction to Bullington when she found out she was going to be inducted, and is thrilled that the Linebacker’s Club realized that there are a lot of gifted athletes that have come through Pendleton High that didn’t contribute on the football field.

“It’s an amazing feeling and I’m glad they’re opening this door,” she said with a wide grin. “There are a lot of great female athletes so I feel honored to be one of the firsts.”

Cimmiyotti, who now lives in Bozeman, Montana and sells real estate for Berkshire Hathaway, graduated from Pendleton in 1979 and was a star on the Pendleton cheerleading squad and track teams during her career. She became the first lady Buckaroo to win an individual state championship in 1979 when she won the 200 meter dash at the state track and field championships. She said that she owes all of her success to the people of the town.

“Pendleton is such a gracious town and you can’t get better than this town and the people,” she said. “I miss it and hope to come back some day.”

While the non-football players were the headliners of this class, the Hall of Fame still welcomed in plenty of players who excelled on the gridiron. One of those was Brian Nooy, a 2003 graduate of PHS who was a three-year letterwinner on the field as a quarterback and parlayed that success into a full-ride scholarship to play at the University of Idaho.

“I still don’t know if I’ve wrapped my head around this yet,” Nooy joked on Friday. “But I think about the guys I played with, four Division I players on one squad and I think I was very, very fortunate that those guys were there to allow me to do what I did. They’re a big reason I’m here.”

Linebacker’s Club Hall of Famer and Pro Football Hall of Famer Bob Lilly made the trip up from his home in Texas for the ceremonies to celebrate with and introduce his lifelong friend and 2017 inductee

Gerald ‘Tex’ Ayler. The latter had his senior year cut short due to a devastating foot injury while at Pendleton in the late 1950s, but still earned three varsity letters as a Buckaroo football player.

Ayler enlisted in the Navy after graduating from Pendleton in 1957 and served as a pilot aboard the aircraft carrier USS Essex from 1957-61. After getting discharged, he earned a business degree from Portland State and then returned to Pendleton in 1981 when he took a job with the Oregon Liquor Control Commission and had the post relocated to the Round-Up city and lived here until moving to Bend in 1999 to be closer to his grandchildren.

“I’ll tell you it’s a real honor to be included in this group of people,” Ayler said of his induction. “I think to be inducted you have to meet certain qualifications of achievement and good behavior and I just feel honored to be a part of this group this year.”
