Ian Moore & The Lossy Coils sparks park series

PENDLETON — Hot August nights will be even hotter as Ian Moore & The Lossy Coils perform during the upcoming Wednesdays in the Park.

The free event is Wednesday, Aug. 9 from 6-8 p.m. at Roy Raley Park, 1205 S.W. Court Ave., Pendleton. Food, beer and wine will be available for purchase.

Moore entered the Austin music scene in the early '90s and later plummeted into depression. He surfaced every few years and delivered musical explorations before disappearing into obscurity again.

And then he met Matt Harris at a crimping seminar in 2002. Harris, too, had experienced some of life's woes after developing a love for fast music and fast living.

After placing second in the dual crimp-off category, the pair bonded and ended up playing and performing together. They formed The Lossy Coils in 2005.

Straddling genres, the band provides a soulful, bluesy rock sound, mixed with psychedelic power pop.

Presented by Pendleton Parks & Recreation and Sounds Like Entertainment, the all-ages concert series runs each Wednesday through Aug. 16. For more information, call 541-276-8100 or search Facebook for "Wednesdays in the Park."

Elwood is the featured performer for Heppner's Aug. 13 Music in the Park.

Park offers perfect venue for outdoor enthusiast

HEPPNER — The power of Mother Nature provides inspiration for Cole "Elwood" Haney.

Fans of Elwood say they can feel that power and serenity in the La Grande man's music. To find out for yourself, head to Heppner's Music in the Park.

The outdoor venue should provide a perfect backdrop for the free performance. People are encouraged to bring a blanket or lawn chair Sunday, Aug. 13 from 5-7 p.m. at Heppner City Park, 444 N. Main St. There is no admission charge.

Food will be available by donation to the Shared Ministry of Hope Lutheran Church and All Saints Episcopal Church. The group is raising money for well-building efforts through Living Water International.

The monthly music series concludes Sept. 10 with Eric Jepsen and John Wambeke. For more information, contact the Heppner Chamber of Commerce at 541-676-5536 or heppnerchamber@centurytel.net.

Travis Tritt changes Wildhorse concert date

MISSION — The date of the Travis Tritt concert in Mission has been changed to Friday, Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. in the Rivers Event Center.

The show is part of Wildhorse's Fall Concert Series. Tickets went on sale Thursday. The 21-and-older shows kick off Sept. 21 with Tony! Toni! Tonè! ($19-$49); the Oct. 7 event features Sawyer Brown ($89-$99, which includes a barbecue meal before the show); and the Nov. 17 season finale features Travis Tritt ($59-$89).

In addition, tickets are still available for the heavy metal performance by Dokken ($29), which is Aug. 31 at 8 p.m., also in the Rivers Event Center.

Tickets can be purchased at the Wildhorse Gift Shop or via www.wildhorseresort.com.

Submit information to: community@eastoregonian.com or drop off to the attention of Tammy Malgesini at 333 E. Main St., Hermiston.

Music Review features cultural two-fer

East Oregonian

BAKER CITY — Japanese drumming and a folklorist are the lead-in to this weekend's Powder River Music Review, which features an old-fashioned jam session.

The public is invited to join Janet Komoto and the Kawa Taiko drummers and folklorist Josh Chryslar for a demonstration of traditional Japanese drumming and a closer look at one of the many living cultural traditions of the Four Rivers region.

The event is Sunday from 2-4 p.m. in the Powder River Pavilion at Geiser-Pollman Park, 1723 Madison St., Baker City. In case of inclement weather, the shows will be held at the Baker County Fairgrounds, 2600 East St.

With no prior knowledge of the tradition, Komoto wore the hats of student, teacher and group leader. She continues to carry on the tradition with students of all ages. The group will share their knowledge, stories and present a taiko performance.

Then, people are invited to stick around from 4-6 p.m. as local bands gather for a good old-fashioned jam session. Ghost Wind (Larry and Peggy Haney), who play American Indian classic folk music and were originally scheduled to perform, notified the review committee that they would be unable to travel to Baker City.

With no set admission fee, people are encouraged to make a $5 donation to help support the music series. Those who donate will receive a raffle ticket for a chance to win a gift basket.

The Powder River Music Review also is sponsoring live entertainment during the weekend leading up to the Aug. 21 total solar eclipse. For information about upcoming performances, visit www.facebook.com/PowderRiverMusicReview.

'Coal Miner's Daughter' gets Hall of Fame show

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum is opening an exhibit on the life and career of Hall of Famer Loretta Lynn in Nashville.

"Loretta Lynn: Blue Kentucky Girl" opens Aug. 25 and runs through Aug. 5, 2018.

The museum said in a news release that highlights include Lynn's original handwritten manuscript for her 1970 hit, "Coal Miner's Daughter," the microphone used at her first recording session, some of her dresses, and the sewing machine she used to make her stage clothes early in her career.

The 85-year-old singer-songwriter suffered a stroke in May and is recovering at home following a stay at a rehabilitation center. She said in a statement from the museum she's excited about the exhibit displaying her more than 50 years in country music.
