Fowles grabs 17 boards as Lynx beat Sparks to even series

By JON KRAWCZYNSKI
Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — The Minnesota Lynx were still stinging two days after they failed to grab a single rebound in the first quarter of their WNBA Finals-opening loss to the Los Angeles Sparks.

So Sylvia Fowles decided to grab them all in Game 2.

Fowles grabbed a Finals-record 17 rebounds and scored 13 points to lead the Lynx to a 70-68 victory over the Los Angeles Sparks on Tuesday night, evening the series at one game apiece.

“When we really put our minds to rebounding nobody can stop us. I think that was fresh in my head,” Fowles said, referring to the zero rebounds. “My mindset was just crash the boards. Every opportunity I got, crash the boards.”

Fowles broke Taj McWilliams-Franklin’s record of 16 for Connecticut in 2005. Lindsay Whalen scored 14 points, Rebekkah Brunson had 12 and the Lynx held the defending champions to 38.7 percent shooting while bouncing back from a last-second loss in Game 1.

Candace Parker had 17 points, six assists and five rebounds for the Sparks, who had the ball and a chance to tie or take the lead with 13.1 seconds to play. But Chelsea Gray lost the handle on her dribble for a turnover, one of two big ones by Los Angeles in the final 14 seconds.

“We didn’t have the fight and grit in the first half that could match Minnesota,” Sparks coach Brian Agler said. “They set the tone early in the game and we have to respond better.”

Gray scored 15 points for Los Angeles, and Nneka Ogumike had 11 points on 3-for-13 shooting and 13 any pats on the back were from “Loserville.”

The Lynx responded in a major way in Game 2, grabbing a 15-point lead in the first eight minutes. They held Ogumike and Parker to a combined 0 for 11 in the first half and Los Angeles shot just 28 percent in the first two quarters.

But just like the Lynx didn’t give up in Game 1, the Sparks wouldn’t go away this time. Parker capped an 11-3 run that cut Minnesota’s lead to three with 1:21 to play and Brunson was whistled for a questionable foul on Parker on the next possession. She converted both free throws to make it 70-68 and Maya Moore missed a jumper on the other end.

With Seimone Augustus hounding her, Alana Beard was whistled for a five-second call on the inbounds pass.

“I didn’t see anyone open,” Beard said. “That said, my responsibility is to get the ball inbounds. That’s something I can’t allow to happen.”

The Sparks had one more shot, but Gray, who beat the Lynx with a jumper in the final seconds of Game 1, couldn’t come up with the heroics for a second straight game. After she lost the handle, Brunson poked the ball away and Moore scooped it up and tossed it ahead to Whalen to seal the win.

“Our defense saved us,” Whalen said. “We were one play better.”

The Sparks are trying to become the first repeat champions since 2002, and they head home having earned a split at raucous Williams Arena.
