Documents stay sealed in Portland train attack case

PORTLAND (AP) — A judge has denied a Portland television station's request to unseal court documents in the Jeremy Christian case.

Christian is accused of killing two passengers and wounding a third on a light-rail train. Prosecutors say he stabbed the men May 26 after initially yelling hateful comments at two black teenage girls, one of whom was wearing an Islamic head covering called a hijab.

KOIN-TV asked for the search warrant affidavit to be unsealed, contending the public has a legitimate interest in knowing the actions of those responsible for the investigation.

Multnomah County Judge Cheryl Albrecht denied the request Friday, saying Christian's right to a fair trial outweighed that concern.

Christian has pleaded not guilty to aggravated murder and other crimes. At Friday's hearing, he yelled: "If I'm a white supremacist, why'd I vote for Bernie Sanders?"

Man charged with shooting drone at recreation area

CENTRAL POINT (AP) — Sheriff's deputies arrested a southern Oregon man accused of shooting down a drone.

Sgt. Julia Denney of the Jackson County Sheriff's Office says 33-year-old Christopher Grindstaff of Central Point turned himself in after hearing about the case online. He's charged with criminal mischief.

The victim told authorities Tuesday that his personal drone had been shot down while flying over a popular recreation area. He posted photos and video of the incident on Facebook, and later provided deputies with images taken by the drone.

Denney says the weapon was a high-velocity air rifle that fired .177 caliber pellet ammunition.

ICE arrest without warrant of man inside house investigated

SALEM (AP) — After walking through the door of a home in Oregon, federal immigration officers acknowledged they didn't have a warrant. Still, they refused to heed requests to leave until they arrested a man who was inside and had been helping remodel the house.

The incident Thursday in a Portland suburb was caught on camera by the man's co-worker and generated an outcry in the Latino community.

Oregon's two U.S. senators denounced the agents' actions. Rep. Diego Hernandez, a Democrat representing Portland in the Oregon House of Representatives, tweeted: "They had no warrant, ICE is out of line."

The man, identified by the senators as Carlos Bolanos, was released after the video was posted on Facebook. ICE is reviewing its officers' actions and has referred the incident to its Office of Professional Responsibility and to the inspector general of ICE's parent organization, the Department of Homeland Security, ICE spokeswoman Yasmeen Pitts O'Keefe said in an email.
