BRIEFLY

Teenager flown to Kadlec after tree falls on her

HERMISTON — A 15-year-old girl was transported via air ambulance to Kadlec Regional Medical Center in Richland Friday afternoon after a tree fell on her in Hermiston.

The incident happened shortly before 1 p.m. in the 2000 block of Northwest 11th Street. According to Umatilla County Fire District 1, the property owners were removing a shed on the property when an old tree fell on the girl.

She was transported from the property via ambulance to Good Shepherd Medical Center's helipad, where she was transferred to the helicopter. Her name has not been released.

RHES parking lot repainted for safety reasons

HERMISTON — Rocky Heights Elementary School parents will have to get used to a new flow of traffic as the district has redesigned the student drop-off/pick-up location.

The change, effective Monday, includes new lines painted on the parking lot to clearly delineate two separate lanes.

One is to stop and drop off or pick up students, and the other lane allows vehicles to drive through the lane without stopping. Hermiston School District Operations Director Brad Wayland said there were no specific problems that caused the district to make the change, but they were trying to be proactive by revising the parking lot's layout to make it safer.

For the first few days of the new traffic pattern, there will be extra staff to direct students and parents through the parking lot.

Residents don't need to winterize water meters

HERMISTON — Hermiston water customers no longer need to pack their water meters with insulation to protect them from winter weather.

The city is nearing the end of a project to replace every customer's water meter with a new model that can be read remotely and provide more detailed reports of water usage throughout the month. National Meter and Automation, the company installing the meters, has placed insulation around the meters as they are installed.

The insulation, consisting of a pink fiberglass wrapped in blue plastic, can be left in the meter boxes year-round because the meters can now be read without physically inspecting the meter. The city requests that people leave the insulation in place all year.

For questions about the project, visit www.hermiston.or.us/meter-replacement or call the Hermiston Water Department at 541-567-5521.

Code changes prompt class for contractors

Contractors have until Nov. 1 to register for an Oregon Home Builders

Association class about major residential code changes in Oregon.

The class will be Nov. 9 from 5:30-8 p.m. at the Red Lion Hotel in Pendleton, and will provide two hours of Series A education toward renewal of their CCB license. All builders and remodelers, as well as framing, insulation, electrical, mechanical and plumbing subcontractors are encouraged to attend in order to "avoid costly and time-consuming corrections."

Code changes affect framing methods, energy efficiency, plumbing, electricity, walls, ceilings, decks and more.

The class is presented by the Oregon Home Builders Association and sponsored by the Northeast Oregon Home Builders Association. Cost is free for members and $30 for nonmembers. Register online at www.neohba.com or call 541-561-5889.

Officials say sea lion disease could spread to dogs

SALEM (AP) — State officials are warning Oregonians to keep their dogs away from sea lions.

A bacterial outbreak that began last month has been causing sick or dead sea lions to strand themselves on beaches in Lincoln, Tillamook and Clatsop counties.

The disease can spread through contact with urine or other bodily fluids of an infected animal. Dogs are more likely to come into contact with distressed sea lions, so they face a higher risk of infection than people.

State public health veterinarian Emilio DeBess says dog owners should keep their pets on a leash while at the beach.

The outbreak of leptospirosis is expected to last at least another month. At least eight cases have been confirmed in dead sea lions in Oregon.

The most recent such outbreak in the state was in 2010.

Man charged with arson for summer wildfire

GRANTS PASS (AP) — An arson charge has been filed against a southern Oregon man accused of igniting wildfires.

Authorities say 60-year-old David Ross Callaway started three separate blazes near Galice in August.

Karl Witz of the Oregon Department of Forestry tells the Grants Pass Daily Courier that two of the fires were small, but one spread to 40 acres before an air attack stopped it.

Callaway has yet to enter a plea and court records don't list an attorney to speak on his behalf.

A conditional release order forbids the Grants Pass man from possessing matches, lighters or other fire-starting materials. He's due back in court Nov. 15.

Police and prosecutors have not said how the fires were set.
