

PUBLIC SAFETY LOG

FRIDAY

3:10 a.m. - Hermiston police responded to North McNary Street on a report of a prowler in a carport but did not find a suspect.

7:54 a.m. - A caller reported the theft of a truck and trailer from Tum A Lum Road, Milton-Freewater.

8:33 a.m. - One hunter struck good fortune and bad luck at the same time.

Oregon State Police reported the man shot a five-point bull elk and was field dressing it off Albee Road near Ukiah and found several old wounds oozing pus. A state police trooper inspected the animal and determined the meat was probably spoiled. The hunter decided to use his tag so he could keep the rack of antlers.

11:01 a.m. - A caller told Milton-Freewater police someone stole the stereo from his vehicle on the 1300 block of South Main Street.

12:39 p.m. - Umatilla police received a report of someone dumping bicycle frames into the dumpster at Umatilla RV Park, 1551 Sixth St.

1:41 p.m. - A Hermiston man on East Wilshire Avenue asked to speak to police about someone breaking into his car and stealing the dealership papers and some change. He said his aunt left his car unlocked.

2:55 p.m. - Hermiston police received a call from a wife concerned about her husband's behavior. She said he yelled at her after she told him she wanted to get her own place, and he took a car that is in both their names. She asked for advice on what to do.

4:06 p.m. - Umatilla police responded to Umatilla High School, 1460 Seventh St., because a belligerent soccer spectator refused to leave.

6:50 p.m. - Umatilla police took a report for a burglary on El Monte Street.

8:55 p.m. - Stanfield police responded to the 500 block of South Main Street, Stanfield, for a woman jumping into traffic. Officers did not find the suspect.

SATURDAY

1:38 a.m. - A resident on Walla Walla River Road, Milton-Freewater, reported someone burglarized his house.

10:13 a.m. - The Heppner ambulance service received a call-out for a 14-year-old boy who flipped a four-wheeler on U.S. Forest Service Road 21 at the Morrow County Off-Highway Vehicle Park. The teen has severe leg pain, the caller reported, but received some treatment. The ambulance took the boy to Pioneer Memorial Hospital, Heppner.

4:39 p.m. - A caller on Columbia Lane, Irrigon, reported someone slashed her tires.

7:25 p.m. - Law enforcement received a report of two or three people fighting on East Hurlburt Avenue, Hermiston.

SUNDAY

1:32 a.m. - And a caller reported several people were fighting on East Main Street, Hermiston.

8:51 a.m. - An Irrigon resident on Northwest Oregon Avenue reported a large steer — 4,000 pounds — was in her backyard and butting up against her trees. The Morrow County Sheriff's Office responded and helped get the steer back where it belonged.

3:13 p.m. - The Morrow County Sheriff's Office received a report that a man on a four-wheeler harassed a Heppner woman on horseback and threatened to shoot her. The sheriff's office took a report.

5:25 p.m. - A caller reported someone entered his workers' house on the 500 block of County Road, Milton-Freewater, and stole cash and cellphones.

Native American activist Dennis Banks dies at age 80

By STEVE KARNOWSKI
 Associated Press

Dennis Banks, who helped found the American Indian Movement and engaged in sometimes-violent uprisings against the U.S. government, including the armed occupation of Wounded Knee in 1973, died at age 80, his family announced Monday.

Banks, whose Ojibwe name was Nowacumig, was one of several activists who founded AIM in Minneapolis in 1968, and he was a leader of the group's takeover of Wounded Knee on the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota in 1973, in a protest against both the U.S. and tribal governments. The village had been the site of a massacre by U.S. soldiers in 1890 that left an estimated 300 Indians dead. The occupiers held federal agents at bay for 71 days; two Native Americans died and several agents were injured amid the frequent gunfire.

Banks died Sunday night at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, surrounded by about 30 people, including siblings, children and grandchildren, said daughter Tashina Banks Rama. He had heart surgery earlier this month and was in high spirits until pneumonia he had contracted after the surgery took a turn for the worse on Friday, she said.

"Dennis Banks is somebody who had an indelible impact on history, not just in our native community but throughout our country," said Anton Treuer, a professor of the Ojibwe language at Bemidji State University, citing how he demanded that the powerful take notice of American Indian concerns. "He was someone who was both loved and hated — depending on what circle you're looking at."

Banks and fellow AIM leader Russell Means faced charges stemming from the Wounded Knee occupation, but a judge threw out the case. However, Banks spent 18 months in prison in the 1980s after being convicted for rioting and assault for a protest in Custer, South Dakota, earlier in 1973. He avoided prosecution on those charges for several years because California Gov. Jerry Brown refused to extradite him, and the Onondaga Nation in New York gave him sanctuary.

Banks also helped lead a takeover of the Bureau of Indian Affairs offices in Washington, D.C., in 1972 as part of a protest dubbed "The Trail of Broken Treaties." And he was a participant in the 1969-71 occupation by Native Americans of Alcatraz Island, the site of the former prison in San Francisco Bay.

Banks' family wrote on his Facebook page that as he took his last breaths, son Minoh Banks sang him four songs for his journey.

"All the family who were present prayed over him and said our individual goodbyes," the family said. "Then we proudly sang him the AIM song as his final send off."

Banks lived near the town of Federal Dam on the Leech Lake Reservation in northern Minnesota and was a member of the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe, one of the many bands of Ojibwe, also known as the Chippewa or Anishinaabe, living in North America. In the late 1990s, Banks founded a company that sold wild rice and maple syrup, trading on his famous name.

He was part of a group of AIM supporters who returned to Wounded Knee in 2003 to mark the 30th anniversary of the standoff. Banks paid tribute to the dead as "warriors" and declared it "a national holiday." He was also there in 1998 for the 25th anniversary.

In 2010, Banks joined several other Ojibwe from the Leech Lake and White Earth bands who tested their rights under an 1855 treaty by setting out nets illegally on Lake Bemidji a day before Minnesota's fishing season opener. He also went to the Standing Rock Reservation in North Dakota to join last year's protests of the Dakota Access oil pipeline.

Treuer said Banks is remembered in the Native American community not just for his work in the rise of AIM, but for his efforts on the local level, such as focusing attention on racial disparities in the justice system, housing for Native Americans, treaty rights and teaching traditional ways to young people.

Rama said the family plans to hold wakes Wednesday evening at the Minneapolis American Indian Center, and Thursday and Friday on Leech Lake Reservation in a traditional ceremony Saturday.

Banks is survived by 20 children and more than 100 grandchildren, she said.
