

European observers criticize silence on Honduras election

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — A European Union electoral observation mission criticized Honduras' electoral court Tuesday for its lack of communication about the results from the weekend presidential election.

The team's preliminary report said that voting Sunday was generally peaceful and that results were being processed in front of party representatives. But it also noted that while the electoral court made five announcements of preliminary results following the 2013 election, it had made just one this time.

The mission said citizens have a right to more frequent communication.

"It is urgent that the results be disclosed," said Marisa Matias, head of the EU mission. "The communication from authorities with their people must be more fluid."

By late afternoon, preliminary results based on a tally of about 63 percent of the ballots kept challenger Salvador Nasralla in the lead, about four points ahead of President Juan Orlando Hernandez.

Both have declared themselves the winner.

David Matamoros, head of the electoral court, said Tuesday that there were still 2.4 million ballots to process. He blamed the delay on the materials used in the vote, which are being transported by military trucks from 400 remote areas across the country.

Spring wedding at Windsor for Prince Harry and Markle

LONDON (AP) — It will be a spring wedding on the glorious grounds of Windsor Castle for love-struck Prince Harry and Meghan Markle.

Royal officials — thrilled with the international response to news of the couple's engagement, and the positive reaction to their first ever TV appearance — revealed a few key details Tuesday but kept much on others, such as who will be Harry's best man?

The wedding will be in May, but the date has not been chosen, Harry's communications secretary, Jason Knauf, told a packed briefing at Buckingham Palace.

Knauf said Harry's grandmother, Queen Elizabeth II, had given permission for the couple to wed at St. George's Chapel, the historic church on the Windsor Castle grounds that has long been a touchstone for royal rites of passage. He said the 91-year-old monarch will attend.
