Japanese pitcher-hitter Shohei Ohtani chooses the Angels

Associated Press

ANAHEIM, Calif. Shohei Ohtani has decided he's on the side of the Angels.

The Japanese two-way announced Friday he will sign with the Los Angeles Angels, ending the sweepstakes surrounding his move to the majors in a surprising destination.

Ohtani turned down interest from every other big-league club to join two-time MVP Mike Trout and slugger Albert Pujols with the Angels, who are coming off their second consecutive losing season and haven't won a playoff game since 2009.

But the Angels' combination of a promising core and a beautiful West Coast location clearly appealed to the 23-year-old Ohtani, who has confounded baseball experts at almost every step of his move to North America as one of the most coveted free agents in years.

Ohtani's agent, Nez Balelo, issued a statement Friday announcing the decision. Balelo said the 2016 Japanese MVP "felt a true bond with the Angels. He sees this as the best environment to develop and reach the next level and attain his career goals.'

After his unusual courtship, Ohtani will attempt to chart an even more unique career path as the majors' first regular two-way player in several decades. Ohtani already has drawn numerous comparisons to Babe Ruth, who excelled as a hitter and Ohtani is expected to be both a starting pitcher and a left-handed designated hitter for the Angels, who intend to give him ample playing time in both roles.

a pitcher early in his Hall of Many baseball observers have long assumed Ohtani would choose a higher-profile franchise such as the Yankees or Dodgers, who would have both welcomed him into their rotation and lineup. He received serious attention from Seattle and Texas, who both could have given him more money than the Angels.

Japanese star Shohei Ohtani is bringing his arm and bat to the Los Angeles Angels, pairing him with twotime MVP Mike Trout. Ohtani's agent put out a statement Friday, Dec. 8, 2017, saying the prized two-way player had decided to sign with the Angels, a surprise winner over Seattle, Texas and several other teams.

Ohtani listened to final pitches from several teams in Los Angeles earlier this week before making his choice. The Angels play about 28 miles from downtown LA in laid-back Orange County, where most of the Angels live in coastal Newport Beach and enjoy a comfortable, warmweather lifestyle with ample big-market media attention, but without the withering scrutiny of other top destinations.

general Angels But manager Billy Eppler is very serious about winning, and he has spent several years scouting Ohtani, ever since his previous job with the

"We are honored Shohei Ohtani has decided to join the Angels organization,' the franchise said in a brief statement. "We felt a unique connectivity with him throughout the process and are excited he will become an Angel. This is a special time for Angels fans.'

Ohtani will be formally introduced at a news conference later in the month.

Ohtani has ample opportunity to fulfill his biggest ambitions with the Angels, who are in need of a top starting pitcher. They should also be able to fit him into their lineup when he isn't pitching: Pujols has largely been a designated hitter for the past two seasons, but the three-time NL MVP is expected to be healthy enough to play first base more frequently in 2018.

Ohtani was coveted by every team because of his exceptional pitching talent and powerful bat, but also because he represents an extraordinary bargain due to baseball's rules around international players.

The Angels will have to pay the $20 million posting fee to Ohtani's previous club, the Nippon Ham Fighters, but Ohtani will not be paid a huge salary for the next three seasons. Ohtani will sign a minor league contract and can receive up to $2,315,000 in international bonus money from the Angels.

Ohtani likely could have received a deal worth more than $100 million if he had waited two years to move stateside, but Ohtani wasn't interested in delaying his progress for money. Ohtani is likely to have an immediate spot in the front of the rotation for the Angels, who have endured brutal injuries to their starting pitchers for two seasons.

Los Angeles' ostensible ace is Garrett Richards, but he has been limited to 62 1/3 innings over the past two seasons due to major injuries. The rotation also currently includes Matt Shoemaker, Andrew Heaney and Tyler Skaggs, who have all dealt with major injury setbacks recently.

Ohtani was 3-2 with a 3.20 ERA this year, but was slowed by thigh and ankle injuries. He hit .332 in 65 games with eight homers and 31 RBIs.

But those numbers don't indicate the incredible potential seen in Ohtani. whose fastball has been clocked above 100 mph. While he has occasionally struggled with control, Ohtani is widely thought to be a surefire big-league

Jaguars refuse to view incoming Seahawks as statement game

By MARK LONG Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The Jacksonville Jaguars haven't played a home game with this much at stake in nearly a decade.

An outside shot at clinching a postseason berth. A perennial playoff contender and recent Super Bowl champion in town. A chance to prove they belong among the NFL's elite.

Some might even call Sunday's matchup against the Seattle Seahawks (8-4) a "statement game." Not the Jaguars (8-4).

Jacksonville refuses to acknowledge what a victory against the 2014 Super Bowl champions would mean, even if everyone else does.

"Y'all hype up who y'all want to hype up," said Jaguars cornerback Jalen Ramsey, chiding the media . "Y'all don't hype up who y'all don't. We were sorry last year, but we're not this year. We ain't talking about last year."

Maybe not. But for a team that lost 74 of 96 games over the previous six seasons and hasn't been this close to the playoffs in December since 2010, putting itself in this position is a huge turnaround and should be part of the discussion.

"You all have to stop doing that," Ramsey said. "The media, y'all do that too much. Y'all been hyping people up; y'all hype teams. Stop doing that. Y'all got to stop doing that. It's a new year. It's a new league — everything.

"There are new big dogs around the NFL. Stop doing that. Stop hyping people up."

If the Jaguars are one of the "new big dogs," then facing Seattle late in the season should be the measuring stick. After all, the Seahawks are an NFL-best 20-5 in regular-season games in December and January.

But the Jaguars aren't willing to

"I don't know if you can quite say it's a statement game," Jaguars safety Tashaun Gipson said. "I think that we've proved that, if not the best, one of the best. It's just going out there and collectively doing what we know and what we

"A statement game? We don't want to put that type of pressure on this game. We know it's a big-time game and has a lot of implications. They're trying to get their ninth win and set themselves up. We're trying to do the same thing.

Unlike Seattle, Jacksonville can clinch a playoff berth this week. Both are currently projected as the No. 5 seed in their respective conferences.

The Jaguars need a victory, combined with losses by Buffalo, Miami, the New York Jets and the Los Angeles Chargers to reach the postseason for the first time since 2007. They also need Oakland-Kansas City to not end in a tie.

Seattle hasn't even mentioned the postseason this week, surely because they've been there five consecutive seasons and 11 times in the previous 14 years.

One thing that has been a topic on both coasts: Jacksonville copied Seattle's defensive scheme that carried it to consecutive Super Bowls, and the comparisons are an obvious story line. The Jaguars lead the NFL in scoring defense, total defense, passing defense and

Are the units comparable?

'Nah, there is only one Seattle Seattle linebacker Bobby Wagner said.

Here are some other things to know about the Seahawks and ESCAPE ARTIST: Jaguars defensive end Calais Campbell will be facing Seahawks quarterback Russell Wilson for the 11th time. Campbell is 4-5-1 in the previous 10 meetings and knows all too well what Wilson can do.

"I call him Houdini because he can just create out of nowhere," Campbell said. "It's like magical. You think you've got him and then he just does something crazy, breaks free and throws a touchdown. We have our hands full."

GROUND ATTACK: The Seahawks flashed some semblance of a viable run game against Philadelphia. It took a mix of scrambles by Russell Wilson and a few flashy runs from Mike Davis for the Seahawks to rush for 101 yards against the NFL's top rush defense.

Davis' 64 yards rushing were the most by a Seattle running back since Chris Carson had 93 yards in Week 2 vs. San Francisco.

TOUCHDOWN Jimmy Graham continues to be on a touchdown roll. The Seattle tight end is tied with Antonio Brown and DeAndre Hopkins for the NFL lead with nine TD receptions. He's caught TDs in four straight games, and all nine of his scoring grabs have come in the past eight games.

IN THE ZONE: Blake Bortles has been at his best in the red zone this season. Jacksonville's fourthyear quarterback has completed 22 of 41 passes for 140 yards, with 12 touchdowns and no interceptions inside the 20-yard line.
