

BUCKS: Pendleton was led by three shooters who combined for 46 points

known in the paint, getting four of her seven first-half points from putbacks.

Despite the 40-29 deficit the Tigers (7-10) found themselves in, their second-quarter performance was the best of the night. Seven players chipped in for La Grande's 17 points in the period, four of whom knocked down 3-pointers. But Pendleton followed every one of their 3-pointers with buckets of their own and the shots did not stop dropping.

The Bucks went on an 13-2 run in the third quarter to eventually push their lead to 55-37 going into the final eight minutes of play.

With tensions rising on the La Grande bench, head coach Justin McKay was given a technical early in the fourth quarter. The Tiger's top scorer, freshman Camryn Collman, scored seven of La Grande's final points and finished with 21 in the game.

"They have a player that's really good and she's only a freshman," Porter said of Collman. "She's going cause people fits for a long time but one player can't beat five."
"I liked our defense,"

Pendleton's Kalan McGlothran grabs a rebound guarded by La Grande's McKenzie Orton in the Bucks' 73-50 win against/loss to the Tigers on Tuesday in Pendleton.

Porter added. "We had a little different scheme tonight than we normally would have, and we ran multiple different looks at them. We're fine with (Collman) scoring — we scored 73. That's all part of the game plan."

For the Bucks, the win comes a week after a loss to Baker that broke their seven-game winning streak.

Pendleton now turns back to league play and hopes to defend its CRC title, and to do so injury free which hasn't also been the case this year. Most notably, McGlothran sat out the first month of the season due to injury.

"It scares me to death that somebody might get hurt and that I might lose somebody for league play," Porter said of a non-league contest in the middle of league games. "The sad reality is that there can be a gap in our schedule this time in our league play so we've had non-league game in there the last couple of years."

The Bucks came out of Tuesday's contest scot free and will now get to the brunt of their CRC schedule.

Up first, a road trip to The Dalles on Friday.

ROUNDUP: With Honkers injured, Cardinals fly away with resounding win

The Pirates (9-10, 1-4) will begin its three-game road trip on Friday in Umatilla. The game is slated for 7:30 p.m.

ARLINGTON 52, IONE 40 — On the road, Arlington won its third consecutive game with a 52-40 victory over Ione. The Honkers now move to 9-7 overall and 5-2 in the Big Sky League, while the Cardinals (4-13 overall, 2-5 BSL) are trying to climb out of the bottom of the league.

These two teams will be pitted against each other again later in the week. Ione will travel to Arlington on Friday for a 7:30 p.m. tipoff.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

IONE 65, ARLINGTON 20 — Plagued with injuries, Arlington only had five girls playing Tuesday night in Ione.

Behind a 19-point performance from senior Maggie Flynn, the Cardinals (6-11 overall, 5-2 Big Sky League) defeated the Honkers (1-9, 0-7) by a 45-point margin, 65-20.

Just like the boys teams, both Arlington and Ione will play each other again Friday at 6 p.m.

3-pointers — AHS 1, IHS 1. Free throws — AHS 1-14, IHS 0-4. Fouls — AHS 7, IHS 11.

NYSSA 50, VALE 44 — Nyssa defended its home court Tuesday by earning a 50-44 victory over the visiting Vale Vikings (8-10 overall, 4-2 Eastern Oregon League). The Bulldogs (9-8 overall, 3-2 EOL) rebounded well after a narrow loss just three days ago and will now play away from home for the next few games.

Nyssa will hit the road, first traveling to Burns Friday for a 6 p.m. game. One day later, Vale will host Burns for a 4 p.m. matchup.

HOF: Martinez nears the necessary 75 percent as voting deadline approaches

During an 18-season big league career spent entirely with Seattle, he won two AL batting titles, earned seven All-Star selections and finished with a .312 average and 309 homers.

Paul Molitor, elected to the Hall in 2004, was a DH in 1,174 of 2,683 games. Thomas DHed in 1,310 of 2,322.

"People are taking a different look about the DH, and they're looking more about sabermetric numbers and taking into consideration all those numbers and it seems to be helping," Martinez said last year.

Seattle distributed a 15-page look at his career to potential voters. Spaeder has compared Martinez to Hall of Famers, pointing out an on-base percentage (.418) superior to Stan Musial's, an OPS (.933) above Frank Robinson's and a slugging percentage (.515) greater than Willie McCovey's. His Weighted Runs Above Average led to an additional 54 Mariners wins, Jack Moore pointed out on Fangraphs in 2009. Spaeder said he assisted on Jonah Keri's campaign for Tim Raines, elected in his final ballot appearance last year after starting at 24.3 percent.

"He invited me to Tim Raines' Hall of Fame dinner," Spaeder said.

Jones and Thome would raise to 54 the total of players elected in their first year of eligibility. An eight-time All-Star, Jones won the 1999 NL MVP and the 2008 NL batting title. He batted .303 with 2,726 hits and 468 home runs in 19 seasons with the Atlanta Braves. Thome was a five-time All-Star who hit 612 home runs, eighth on the career list, over 22 seasons.

Hoffman fell five votes short last year, when Jeff Bagwell, Raines and Ivan Rodriguez were elected.

Hoffman is making his third appearances and is bidding to become only the sixth pitcher in the Hall who was primarily a reliever, after Hoyt Wilhelm (1985), Rollie Fingers (1992), Dennis Eckersley (2004), Bruce Sutter (2006) and Goose Gossage (2008). Relievers and DHs get a boost when Mariano Rivera becomes eligible next year and David Ortiz in 2022.

Hoffman's 601 saves trail only Rivera's 652, and he is at 78.4 percent on the vote-tracker, which estimates there are 424 total ballots. Guerrero is at 94.8 percent in his second appearance after falling 17 votes short last year. Jones is at 98.3 and Thome at 93.1.

Guerrero was a nine-time All-Star and the 2004 AL

MVP with the Anaheim Angels. He hit .318 with 449 homers and 1,496 RBIs in 16 big league seasons.

Roy Halladay also will be on the 2019 ballot. The retired pitcher died Nov. 7 at age 40 when a plane he was piloting crashed off Florida.

Voters must have been members of the BBWAA for 10 consecutive years and their ballots were due Jan. 24. Anyone elected will be inducted into the Hall at Cooperstown on July 29 along with pitcher Jack Morris and shortstop Alan Trammell, who were voted in last month by the Hall's Modern Era committee, which considered former players and executives whose contributions to baseball were most significant from 1970-87.
