Kitzhaber agrees to settle ethics case for $2K

By PARIS ACHEN Capital Bureau

Former Gov. John Kitzhaber has agreed to settle a state ethics case against him for directives to staff or official actions that would further the financial interest of 3E Strategies," they wrote.

Kitzhaber attended meetings for which Hayes was either being paid or was seeking contracts with environmental advocacy groups and promoted and advanced her business, they wrote. For instance, he gave a speech in May 2013 at a planning retreat at the governor's residence, Mahonia Hall, to discuss transitioning Oregon to a different economic measurement formula that factors in environmental health. Hayes was being paid by public policy organization Demos for facilitating the meeting. In addition, Kitzhaber failed to publicly disclose his potential conflicts of interest and actual conflicts in at least seven instances, as required by state law, the investigators wrote. He also allegedly improperly accepted United Airlines Premier Platinum status, worth an estimated $4,000. That violates Oregon law prohibiting public officials from accepting gifts valued at more than $50. Kitzhaber has said he was unaware that he had received the platinum status.

Family famed for protest photo dies when SUV plunges off cliff

By PAUL ELIAS AND TOM JAMES Associated Press

FRANCISCO SAN Α family that gained attention for an emotional photograph of an African-American boy hugging a white police officer at a 2014 protest were killed when their SUV plunged off a scenic California highway, authorities said Wednesday as they asked for help figuring out what happened. "We have every indication to believe that all six children were in there," Mendocino County Sheriff Tom Allmon said, appealing for tips to retrace where the siblings and two parents had been before the vehicle was found Monday in rocky ocean. "We know that an entire family vanished and perished during this tragedy." Some friends described married couple Jennifer and Sarah Hart as good parents who took their adopted kids to Bernie Sanders rallies, while some neighbors said they called child welfare officials in their rural Washington state community over concerns about possible abuse or had noticed red flags. The California Highway Patrol has not determined why the vehicle went off an ocean overlook on a rugged part of coastline. A specialized team of accident investigators was trying to figure that out, Allmon said. "There were no skid marks, there were no brake marks" at the turnout on the Pacific Coast Highway where the vehicle went over, the sheriff said. Investigators have no reason to believe the crash was intentional, he said. The 100-foot drop killed the women, both 39, and their children Markis Hart, 19; Jeremiah Hart, 14; and Abigail Hart, 14. Hannah Hart, 16; Devonte Hart, 15; and Sierra Hart, 12, have not been found. The Harts lived in Woodland, Washington, a small city outside

The proposed agreement between the Oregon Ethics Commission and the former governor who resigned in February 2015 amid an influence-peddling scandal is 20 times more than a previous proposed settlement, which the commission rejected.

In February, the ethics commission voted to pursue 10 alleged violations of state ethics law by Kitzhaber.

The "preliminary findings of violation" were based on a 135-page report released in February by state investigators.

Kitzhaber violated law prohibiting use of his office for personal financial gain at least twice when he took actions that benefited his fiancée, Cylvia Hayes's environmental consulting firm, 3E Strategies, investigators wrote in the report. Hayes lived in the governor's residence in Salem with Kitzhaber, and her payments from clients were counted as part of the couple's household income in mandatory statements of economic interest.

"The commission made no finding that former Governor Kitzhaber intentionally used his position as governor to advance the financial interests of Ms. Hayes or 3E Strategies," states the proposed stipulated final order, released Wednesday, March 28. "Such intent is not a necessary element."

As governor, he was "personally responsible to ensure that he did not engage in any policy decisions, discussions, speeches, meetings,

Kitzhaber had no comment Wednesday on the proposed settlement.

If the commission rejects the proposed settlement, Kitzhaber could face up to $50,000 in fines for the alleged violations.

In November, Kitzhaber and ethics commission staff members came up with a proposed settlement of $1,000, but the ethics commission rejected that agreement in November, as first reported by the Pamplin/EO Media Group.

The ethics commission has an ethics case pending against Hayes.

In this Nov. 25, 2014, file photo provided by Johnny Nguyen, Portland police Sgt. Bret Barnum, left, and Devonte Hart, 12, hug at a rally in Portland, where people had gathered in support of the protests in Ferguson, Mo.

Portland and had a recent visit from Child Protective Services, Clark County sheriff's Sgt. Brent Waddell told The Associated Press.

He said the sheriff's office later entered the house and found no obvious signs of trouble or violence. It appeared the family planned a short trip because they left behind a pet, chickens and most of their belongings.

Next-door neighbors Bruce and Dana DeKalb said they called child services Friday because they were concerned that Devonte Hart, who hugged the officer at the protest, was going hungry. They said he had been coming over to their house often in the past week asking for food.

The DeKalbs also recounted that three months after the family moved into the home on 2 acres with a fenced pasture in May 2017, one of the girls rang their doorbell at 1:30 a.m.

She "was at our door in a blanket saying we needed to protect her," Bruce DeKalb said. "She said that my wife since that day."

In 2011, Sarah Hart pleaded guilty to a domestic assault charge in Minnesota. Her plea led to the dismissal of a charge of malicious punishment of a child, online court records say.

The family got attention after Devonte Hart was photographed during a 2014 protest in Portland over a grand jury's decision not to indict a police officer in the shooting of a black man in Ferguson, Missouri.

The boy, holding a "Free Hugs" sign, stood crying. A Portland officer saw his sign and asked if he could have a hug, and an emotional Hart embraced him in a picture that was widely shared.
