promoting Rob Whalen (long relief) and right-hander Nick Rumbelow (one-inning pitcher) from Triple-A Tacoma. To make room, first baseman Dan Vogelbach was optioned to Tacoma, and reliever Mike Morin was designated for assignment.

Seager returned after a one-game absence after tending to a personal matter Wednesday with his wife, Julie, who is pregnant. Seager said everything at home came out OK. Left-fielder Ben Gamel took grounders at first base before the game. He played one game at that position last season.

TRAINER'S ROOM

Red Sox: 2B Dustin Pedroia (left knee inflammation) is still not doing any baseball activity, although he did work out in the visiting clubhouse gym Thursday. "We are going to be patient," manager Alex Cora said. ... LHP Drew Pomeranz (left biceps tendinitis) played catch Thursday and is feeling better, Cora said. ... RHP Tyler Thornburg (right shoulder) was scheduled to make a start Thursday for Triple-A Pawtucket as he makes his way back from thoracic outlet surgery.

Mariners: RHP Nick Vincent (strained right groin) continues to play catch every day, as he did before the game Thursday. It is uncertain when he will get back on the mound for a bullpen session. Servais said he is hopeful Vincent and RHP Juan Nicasio (right knee) will be able to return from the 10-day disabled list early in the team's upcoming road trip, starting Tuesday in New York.

UP NEXT

Red Sox: RHP Rick Porcello (8-3, 3.54 ERA), the AL's reigning Cy Young Award winner, has gone six innings and given up two earned runs in each of his past three starts (two wins). This will be his 13th career start against the Mariners, and he is 3-1 with a 2.22 ERA at Safeco Field.

Mariners: LHP James Paxton (6-1, 3.02 ERA) is 5-0 with a 1.87 ERA since early May. Paxton is 2-0 with a 0.39 ERA against Boston, having given up just one earned run in 23 innings. He beat the Red Sox last July with seven scoreless innings.

OSU: Heimlich will likely pitch opener

suspended for a violation of team rules. OSU was already without staff ace Luke Heimlich, who chose to not pitch after a report surfaced detailing his juvenile record.

The Beavers are expected to have their full roster available this time around.

"We feel like anytime you can go to a tournament with your entire club, that helps," Casey said. "We were without a couple guys last year and I still felt like we were a good enough club to move on and do some of the things we wanted to do. We played a great club in LSU and we weren't able to sustain that momentum we had, so hopefully we'll be able to come out of the chute and play well."

Heimlich likely to pitch opener

Casey said he "would assume" Heimlich, the two-time Pac-12 pitcher of the year, will get the start against North Carolina.

"We study that tape, look at the matchup," Casey elaborated. "We know we're going to play two games, and it's kind of like that deal in the regionals where you don't know who you're going to play in Game 2. You certainly know who you're going to play in Game 1, so the decision will be based on (North Carolina)."

Heimlich (16-1, 2.32 earned run average) leads Division I in victories and is third nationally with 151 strikeouts. The senior left-hander has won nine consecutive starts entering the CWS.

OSU's all-time leader in strikeouts with 377, Heimlich needs one more victory to surpass Ben Wetzler's 36 for the most in program history.

Gretler practices

In the ninth inning of Saturday's 6-3 victory over Minnesota that clinched the Corvallis Super Regional, Gretler took a fastball off his left hand but was able to stay in the game. The honorable mention all-Pac-12 third baseman was also hit in the same hand the previous week against LSU.

Gretler participated in Monday's practice and is expected to be available at the CWS.

"Mike's a tough guy," Casey said. "I think if he probably was (injured), he wouldn't tell anybody anyway."
