Artistic side of sports in Tamástslíkt exhibit

"Beautiful Games: American Indian Sport & Art" opens Friday

East Oregonian

Some of Jim Thorpe's medals are featured in an exhibition at Tamástslíkt Cultural Institute.

A member of the Sac and Fox Nation, Thorpe won Olympic gold medals in the pentathlon and decathlon. In addition, he played professional football and baseball.

"Beautiful Games: American Indian Sport & Art" highlights the artistic element of sports. The exhibit features artwork, artifacts, history and discussions about sports and its role in tribal life.

It opens Friday with free admission. Tamástslíkt is located near Wildhorse Resort & Casino, off Interstate 84 at Exit 216.

Sports have played a pivotal role in American Indian tribal communities. Also, many contemporary sports played across cultures are rooted in traditional tribal sporting games.

Native games are more than just games — they build body and spirit through exercise and are played by all ages. Many games have roots in ancestral tests of strength and sport that reinforced group cooperation and sharpened survival skills. Also, American Indians occasionally incorporated games into religious ceremonies.

Competition teaches cooperation, consensus, compromise and teamwork, all of which are pillars of indigenous societies. Athletes learn how to develop strategies and solve problems, patience, discipline, perseverance, trust, empathy, respect and control. These games and play are integral in helping prepare young people for adult responsibilities, and assist in mitigating conflict.

Tamástslíkt is open Monday through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. "Beautiful Games" runs through Oct. 13.

Regular admission is $10 for adults, $9 for seniors, $6 for youths 6-17 and free for ages 5 and under. Also, family passes provided by the Libraries of Eastern Oregon can be checked out from many area libraries. For more information, call 541-429-7700 or visit www.tamastslíkt.org.

Lake Wallula Fire 96 percent contained

East Oregonian

The fire burning along Highway 730 was 96 percent contained Tuesday evening after crews fought back flames fanned by high winds and extreme temperatures.

The fire — dubbed the Lake Wallula Fire — began Sunday evening in the Juniper Canyon area northwest of Hermiston and was at approximately 10,462 acres, according to GPS mapping done Tuesday. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

Firefighters continued to work on the perimeter through the day to make sure the fire didn't reignite, and on Wednesday a smaller contingent will return to the scene.

No structures were lost and no one was injured, according to a release from the incident management team.

Umatilla County Fire District 1 operations chief Jim Forquer said Umatilla Rural Fire District, Echo Fire District and other area districts were also on scene, as well as the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife. He said area farmers were also helping disc fire breaks. About 80 people were fighting the fire in total, and they were provided air support by helicopter water drops and retardant planes.

Hermiston seeking time capsule items

East Oregonian

The city of Hermiston is asking for items to be placed in a time capsule that is scheduled to be opened in 50 years.

The city plans to seal the capsule underground to celebrate the dedication of the new Harkenrider Center on Sept. 8.

Items for consideration can be dropped off at the Hermiston Public Library until Sept. 5. City staff will choose photographs, documents and some small three-dimensional items to go in a small capsule for future Hermiston residents to unearth on Sept. 8, 2068. Items not chosen for inclusion will be returned to their owners, but items chosen for the time capsule will become property of the city.

The city asks that people donating items for consideration keep in mind that food, plants and other similar items could damage the capsule's content.

"Also consider that digital or electronic items may be unusable 50 years from now," the city news release reads. "For example, if a floppy disk were included in a capsule 20 years ago, the likelihood of the future residents being able to read its content is very low."

TREASURE HUNT CLUE NO. 2

See the Herald clue, which refers to a song

The annual National Night Out Treasure Hunt is underway in Hermiston.

The rules and first clue were printed in Tuesday's East Oregonian and an additional bonus clue appears in Wednesday's Hermiston Herald. The Hermiston resident who finds the golden medallion will win an ice cream social block party Tuesday, Aug. 7 as part of Hermiston's National Night Out activities.

You must immediately contact Tim Miears at the Hermiston Police Department, 330 S. First St., 541-667-5112 (leave a message) or tmiears@hermiston.or.us.

Umatilla man arrested in Richland Winco shooting

East Oregonian

A Umatilla man was charged in Richland with attempted murder after allegedly shooting a woman in a grocery store.

Richland Police booked Matthew McQuin, 45, in Benton County Jail on the charges. The victim was taken to a local hospital with gunshot wounds, but police have provided no further information on her condition.

Police responded to WinCo Foods in Richland around 7:30 p.m. Monday and found the woman with a gunshot wound. McQuin surrendered to police inside the store.

As of Tuesday afternoon, the victim was reported to have been released from the hospital.

Umatilla Police Chief Darla Huxel said McQuin is known to local law enforcement. He has been arrested several times in Umatilla County for possession of controlled substances, driving under the influence of intoxicants and fleeing or eluding a police officer. His most recent charges were in August 2017 for driving under the influence of intoxicants.
