RECREATIONAL VEHICLE GUIDE | SAFETY

Keep Fire Safety in Mind

Just like in your home, it's crucial to have a fire-escape plan in place while traveling in an RV.

An RV requires many flammable fluids and electrical circuits to properly operate. Unfortunately, a fire can break out whether you are moving or parked, so safety and planning is a must.

According to the National Fire Protection Association, an estimated 20,000 RV fires break out every year. To avoid becoming a statistic on your travels, make sure to have your vehicle inspected by a professional service center before hitting the road.

Keep reading for more safety tips:

WHY MAINTENANCE IS IMPORTANT

Complete these pre-trip maintenance tips from the United States National Park Service will ensure your vehicle is ready for the road:

- Check your brakes: If one of your brakes is not functioning correctly, it may create enough friction to ignite a tire or brake fluid.
- Tighten electrical connectors: Unfortunately, the roads you travel will not always be smooth, movements from uneven highways or potholes can loosen important electrical components.
- Look for leaks: If flammable liquids are leaking in the engine compartment, fire may be imminent. Ensure hose connections are secure and leaking issues have been resolved.

- Stock your RV with three fire extinguishers. Keep one in the kitchen, bathroom and outside in an unlocked compartment of a tow vehicle.

- Ensure all smoke, carbon dioxide and propane detectors are functioning and located in proper areas.
- Have at least two escape routes and an escape plan.

The NPS reports about three quarters of highway vehicle fires are due to mechanical or electrical failures. Do your part to ensure your RV is road-ready before putting other drivers at risk.

IF THERE IS A FIRE
In addition to knowing the fire-escape routes, passengers should also know how to dial 911, this includes on-board children.

If a fire is small and manageable, you should attempt to extinguish it but if it large or coming from an unknown source, get everyone out and call for help.
