

MARINERS: Felix Hernandez moving back into the rotation

ROTATION CHANGES

Seattle is making two changes to its rotation. The first was expected, with Felix Hernandez moving back into the rotation to start for injured lefty James Paxton on Monday when Houston visits to open a key three-game series.

Machado

The other move was a bit of a surprise with Seattle pushing Marco Gonzales back a few days. Gonzales was slated to start Sunday's series finale against the Dodgers, but will instead start the series finale against Houston next Wednesday. Seattle's starter for Sunday has yet to be announced. Manager Scott Servais said with upcoming off days Seattle had a chance to push Gonzales back and essentially give him one start over the next few weeks. Gonzales has thrown a career-high 142 2/3 innings already this season.

TRAINER'S ROOM

Dodgers: RHP Erik Goeddel was placed on the 10-day disabled list with elbow inflammation on Friday. It's his second stint on the DL in just the past few weeks. Goeddel was activated off the disabled list last Monday after missing time with a lat injury. The Dodgers reinstated right-handed reliever Daniel Hudson from the 10-day DL to take his spot. Hudson had been out since Aug. 7 with forearm tightness.

Mariners: SS Jean Segura was placed on the paternity list on Friday. Seattle selected IF Gordon Beckham from Triple-A Tacoma to take Segura's roster spot.

UP NEXT

Dodgers: Rich Hill (5-4) looks to remain perfect in his career against Seattle. Hill has appeared in 11 games with four starts against Seattle and is 4-0 with a 1.35 ERA. He hasn't faced the Mariners since the 2016 season.

Mariners: Erasmo Ramirez (0-2) tries to follow up on a strong outing last week in Houston. Ramirez threw five shutout innings allowing just four hits in a no-decision.

JAMES: Accounted for 65 touchdowns in his first two seasons

for 4,307 yards and ran for 1,766 more with a combined 65 touchdowns. He earned a first team all-state selection last year with more than 2,300 passing yards and 1,100 rushing yards with 40 touchdowns and only six turnovers. Though of the nine players that caught passes from James last season, only Jordan Ramirez and his 10 catches for 163 yards and two touchdowns returns to the lineup next season.

"He's going to rely a lot on Jordan," Faaeteete said. "It's going to be a little different for him, but he's grown as a young athlete, as a young adult, and it's exciting to watch him. ... He has a lot of big dreams and we hope we can help him accomplish those."

And Hermiston will need James to repeat the production from last season as the team ventures into new territory in the WIAA and Mid-Columbia Conference to compete against the likes of Richland, Kamiakin, Chiawana and Walla Walla on a weekly basis. For James, of course he wants to win and make more history this season. But for now, he's focused on enjoying his last season in the Bulldogs uniform.

"I just want to have a good senior season," James said.

"You see some kids go 0-12 and have bad senior seasons, but I just want to go out and have a blast with these guys."
