RIVALS: Hoping to establish bowling teams largest with 2,543 students as of 2017.

It isn't just Hermiston's competitors that are set to change, however. This year, Hermiston is adding girls' bowling and slow-pitch softball to their roster of extracurricular activities. There's even talk of adding a girls' wrestling league if enough interest is shown.

"The culture of wrestling is just centered around boys,"

Usher said. "We're looking to change that."

Hermiston is no stranger to bowling — it's hosted both a boys' and girls' bowling club in previous years, but this is the first time it'll be recognized as a competitive team sport.

"We're really excited. This is a great opportunity for the girls," said bowling coach Joanne Chapman. "We want to grow as a team and as bowlers."

Chapman says the boys' bowling club will continue to play in tournaments in Oregon, but are looking to get things set up to compete in the Mid-Columbia Conference in the coming years. They hope to establish varsity and junior varsity teams, as well.

The boys' soccer program will also move from fall to spring in order to be able to compete with the rest of the schools in the conference.

The proposal to change conferences came about primarily to reduce Hermiston's traveling distances for away games. Instead of having to drive a bus full of athletes to Portland for a game, they'll only have to travel as far as the Tri-Cities or Walla Walla.

"This year, our kids won't be pulling in on a bus at 3 a.m.," Usher said. "Our students will get to have a normal high school athletic experience for once. Our athletes, coaches, and staff have embraced that we're unique. This is an opportunity that not many other schools get."

MARINERS: Gonzales finishes up homestand

to Triple-A Fresno. ... As expected, 2B and reigning AL most valuable player Jose Altuve (right knee soreness) was activated from the 10-day disabled list Tuesday. To make room, OF Kyle Tucker was sent to Fresno. ... The Astros have not announced a starting pitcher for Sunday against the Los Angeles Angels, but it won't be Gerrit Cole.

Mariners: With Detwiler coming up, reliever Chasen Bradford was sent to Triple-A Tacoma. ... In order to add Detwiler to the 40-man roster, INF Zach Vincej was designated for assignment. ... C Chris Herrmann's bruised knee felt better Monday, allowing him to start in place of heavily-utilized Mike Zunino on Tuesday. ... Seattle has yet to set its rotation for the upcoming three-game series starting Friday in Arizona.

TRAINER'S ROOM
Astros: For a second consecutive night, CF George Springer (sore left quadriceps) did not start.

Tony Kemp shifted over to play in center, and 3B Alex Bregman again hit in Springer's leadoff spot.

Mariners: Before the game, RHP Hisashi Iwakuma (shoulder) threw 20 pitches at "70-80 percent" velocity to Japanese countryman Ichiro Suzuki, who hit a few sharp line drives into the gap. "It gives me a great idea of where I am right now," Iwakuma said through a team interpreter. ... DH Nelson Cruz (back) came up with spasms late in the game Monday, and was given the day off. ... Ace LHP James Paxton (forearm) could throw a light bullpen session during the day off Thursday. Vincent took Stassi's line drive off his lower left leg in the second inning, and limped to the dugout.

UP NEXT
Astros: RHP Charlie Morton (12-3, 2.85 ERA) has lost his past two games — starting with a 3-2 loss to the Mariners on Aug. 11

Mariners: After a couple extra days of rest, LHP Marco Gonzales (12-8, 3.91) finishes off the homestand for Seattle on Wednesday.
