ARRESTS, CITATIONS

•Calling attention to your driving can have consequences.
 Oregon State Police trooper John Lombardi watched a blue Ford Thunderbird leave the Shell station near East Cornell Place, Hermiston, and turn onto Highway 395 while revving the engine, spinning the car's tires and fish-tailing wildly in heavy traffic. State police reported the trooper saw more violations and stopped the car on 395 near Punkin Center Road.
 The driver was Marco Antonio Garcia, 32, according to state police, but he had no identification. The trooper patted down Garcia and found a "blue crystal substance."
 The trooper arrested Garcia and booked him into the Umatilla County Jail, Pendleton, for the misdemeanor charge of reckless driving. Garcia also received citations for not using a turn signal, driving uninsured and driving while suspended.
 State police sent the blue substance to the crime lab for testing. And the Thunderbird ended up in a tow yard's impound lot.
 •Umatilla County Sheriff's Office arrested Chisa Lea Leicht, 26, of Hermiston, for first-degree burglary, first-degree theft, first-degree trespass, third-degree criminal mischief and felony possession of methamphetamine.

James Otis 'Odie' Wilcox

Hermiston
 April 23, 1935 - August 16, 2018

James Otis "Odie" Wilcox was born April 23, 1935, in Heppner, Oregon, to Charles Bennett Wilcox and Tressie Venus (Allstott) Wilcox. The youngest of three children, he came into this world at five and a half pounds. However, as they say, dynamite comes in small packages and he was definitely proof of that.

Wilcox

Odie from the earliest of years loved fishing and hunting; he understood both like an art that he practiced nearly his entire life. He was an athletic, active and social person who seemed to know no stranger in Hermiston as he spent nearly his entire life raised and raising his own family here.

He came from pioneer families whose homestead farms were in the Heppner and Lexington areas. Hard work and hard play were hand in hand. He was not a stranger to either one, sometimes enjoying the play a bit too much!

He was active in sports in Hermiston. At the time it was called Hermiston Union High School, later becoming Armand Larive Middle School — Mr. Larive was actually the principal while Odie was there. He enjoyed football and basketball, but his true love was boxing. At that time they had boxing in junior high as well as high school. As noted, he wasn't tall of stature, standing a mere 5'3" and weighed less than 120 pounds, but he was built like a heavyweight and threw a punch to marvel anyone who thought they could best him.

After high school he enlisted in the Air Force, became a mechanic technician and spent much of his enlistment in Alaska — where again he was busy fishing any chance he could get.

Following his enlistment he returned home and met Glenda Parsons. They soon married and shared 58 years together. Within 13 months of marriage they had their first born, Pamela Jean, followed by twin brothers a short 13 months after her, James Eric and Robert Otis. Of course, hunting and fishing would also play a large part of their lives, thus continuing a family tradition of love of the land, nature and self-sufficiency.

Odie worked for the City of Hermiston Water Department for over 30 years and also was a Volunteer fireman for nearly as long. He considered the fire-fighting role to be his hunting, fishing and beer money. All three were equally important.

Odie also enjoyed horseshoe pitching and was instrumental in the formation of the club in Hermiston. He also bowled league for many years. He and Glenda traveled to the out-of-town tournaments together for both of these interests. Yard sales were their form of date night, trying to find bargains and interesting antiques or whatever struck their fancy. He loved to search out old home sites and snoop through them to find little treasures.

He was essentially a simple man who was most at home on a rock by a good fishing hole, with a pole, a six-pack of beer, and a pack of Camels.

Sadly, in his last few years he began to suffer from Alzheimer's disease, which slowly robbed him of even the memories of his best fishing stories and the friends he had known and loved. On August 16, 2018, at the age of 83 years, he left the sadness and confusion to go in peace to that rock by a perfect fishing hole where I'm sure he found his folks and brother waiting for him with a cold beer and lies to tell.

Odie is survived by wife, Glenda (Parsons) Wilcox; daughter Pamela (Creigh) Lincoln of Hermiston; sons Eric (Daphne) Wilcox of Dufur and Robert (Marie) Wilcox of Huntington; 10 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren; sister Patricia (Marvin) Kennedy; and sister-in-law Gloria (Aragon) Wilcox.

He was preceded by his older beloved brother, Robert Wilcox, and his parents, Charles and Tressie Wilcox.

There will be a private family gathering at a later time. In lieu of flowers it is asked that donations be made to The Alzheimer's Foundation.

If you are a fisherman, give your next big one a head nod to Odie.

Norma Vale Reeves Busler

Umatilla
 January 25, 1933 - August 18, 2018

Norma Vale Reeves Busler, 85, lifelong resident of Umatilla, Ore., passed away peacefully August 18, 2018, in Spokane, Wash., with her family at her side.

Norma was born at home in Umatilla to Ernest T. and Florence Rachel Reeves on January 25, 1933. Norma grew up with her five siblings on the family farm. She was extremely close to her brothers and sisters, taking care of all of them at one time or another as they aged and needed assistance.

Busler

While growing up Norma was very active in Umatilla High School events. She played sports, played in the band, was a cheerleader and was valedictorian of her graduating class. She was also a member of the Umatilla High School alumni association for many years.

In 1952 Norma married Donald A. Andersen. They had two children, David Andersen of Portland, Ore., and Dawn Andersen Watts of Spokane, Wash. Don and Norma later divorced.

She returned to her birthplace and went to work at the Umatilla Army Depot where she eventually worked her way up to become a supervisor supply clerk. She retired from the Army Depot after 33 years of rising at 4:30 a.m. so she could carpool to work. Norma's children were her pride and joy and she worked tirelessly to provide for them with the assistance of her mother, sisters and brothers.

Norma dearly loved the Lord, her church, and her church family. She became a member of the Umatilla Community Presbyterian Church in the 1960s and was a lifetime member. She held many positions at the church, serving as Sunday school teacher, session member and choir director, to name a few. Her grandchildren all thought she "owned the church." Until her recent illness, she was the "go-to" person for said church.

Norma attended all of her children's events when they were growing up. She did the same for all of her grandchildren, at least as much as her schedule would allow. All her grandchildren's friends knew her as Grandma Norma, the grandma with the "purple hair" and pink umbrella. Over the years, Norma traveled thousands of miles between Portland and Colfax, Wash., to see her children and grandchildren. She also spearheaded several trips to Illinois to visit extended family. Those trips with her sisters, nieces and daughter were very special to her.

Family was very important to Norma, so were her friends. She not only had friends her own age, but also had friends that her children introduced to her. Some of the best times Norma experienced late in life were visits from her family friends, her pastor, her nieces and her sister, Jeannie (Reeves) Creamer. Sister Jeannie was a constant support and companion when her time allowed. The two would often sit and do crossword puzzles, play Yahtzee, or read books.

Norma enjoyed good health most of her life until the winter of 2016, when she was diagnosed with cancer.

Even after several surgeries, radiation and treatments, Norma remained at peace with her circumstances and her faith and family carried her through the rough spots. Following her diagnosis, Norma moved to Spokane to live with her daughter and son-in-law. They were joined by her grandson, Tim, and his wife, Alexandra, a few months later as they began the process of building their home. Her great-granddaughter, Mazie, represented the fourth generation in the household and knew her simply as G.G. (Great-Grandma).

Norma was a wonderful mother, daughter, grandmother, sister, friend, and believer. She always gave of her time and never expected anything in return. She had a servant's heart and always found a way to help someone in need. She will be missed on this earth, but we know she will be with all those she loved who have passed before her.

Norma is survived by her son, Dave Andersen of Portland, Ore., and her daughter Dawn (Andersen) Watts of Spokane, Wash. She is also survived by one sister, Jeannie Creamer, four grandchildren (Keith, Tim, Kristin and Drew), and one great-grandchild (Mazie). She was preceded in death by her mother and father, Florence and Ernest Reeves; two brothers, Harold and Bennie Reeves; and two sisters, Dottie (Reeves) Stephens and Patsy (Reeves) Hutchinson.

If you wish to honor Norma with a memorial donation, you may contribute to the Umatilla Community Presbyterian Church, Umatilla Alumni association or the American Cancer Society.

A celebration of life for Norma will be held at 11:00 a.m. on Saturday, August 25, 2018, at the Umatilla Community Presbyterian, located at 14 Martin Drive. A private family burial will be at Sunset Hills Cemetery, Umatilla, Oregon.
