Music festival jams for 10th year

Juniper Jam
features 15 acts

East Oregonian

Original music takes center stage as more than a dozen musical acts converge on Wallowa County for Juniper Jam.

In its 10th year, the festival features folk, country, Americana, roots, rock and blues. Also, festival-goers can enjoy food and drinks, local artisans and children’s activities. Juniper Jam is Saturday, Sept. 1 from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the Wallowa County Fairgrounds in Enterprise.

While the musical genres vary, festival director Janis Carper said the common thread is original music — honoring the song and its writer. This year’s lineup includes TK & the Holy Know-Nothings, featuring Portland songwriter Taylor Kingman surrounded by an all-star band, including Jay Cobb Anderson and Tyler Thompson (Fruition), Joshua Simon (Shook Twins) and Lewi Longmire (Left Coast Roasters, Brothers & Sister). This “favorite side project” recorded a live album last December with engineer Bart Budwig at Enterprise’s OK Theatre. Also taking the stage is the Don of Division Street fronted by Matt Cadenelli (Wanderlodge, The Deadstring Family Band, Brothers & Sister, Anita Lee & the Handsome 3) along with guitarist Anita Lee Elliot, who will be performing at the festival with her band Anita Lee & the Handsome 3.

“This is one of the most exciting things about this year’s lineup,” Carper said, “the cross-pollination between bands. It really emphasizes the ‘jam’ in Juniper Jam.”

Shane Cooley & the Midnight Girls from Austin, Texas, offer roots and Americana music with a bit of rock and pop.

Anita Lee Elliot will perform country-edged rock with her band, Anita Lee & the Handsome 3.

The Mondegreens bring alternative rock from Seattle.

Brother Busk, a young duo from Portland, will share their talent and charm.

Returning for the festival is Portland’s Kory Quinn Band. And newcomer Mary Bragg, from Nashville, Tennessee, brings impressive credentials as the 2017 MerleFest Chris Austin Songwriting Contest winner and 2018 Songwriter Serenade winner. Other acts include Shane Cooley & the Midnight Girls from Austin, Texas, alternative rock from Seattle with The Mondegreens, and some rootsy soul from Portland’s The Get Ahead. Also, Brother Busk, a young duo from Portland, will infect festival goers with their talent and charm.

The traditional opening Tunesmith Round will feature Jay Cobb Anderson (Fruition), Tommy Alexander and Tracy Spring. Also, Spring will teach Intro to Alternate Tunings on Guitar at 10 a.m. at the Fishtrap House in Enterprise. Registration is $15. A new addition to this year’s festival is a “busking” time, when the gates open at 11 a.m., with Calico Bones, Chris Baron & Megan Cronin, and Joey Carper & Elwood.

“There are many wonderful music festivals in Oregon, but Juniper Jam is the only one in the region that offers exclusively original music,” Carper said.

The event serves as a fundraiser for the Wallowa Valley Music Alliance. Founded in 2004, the non-profit organization sponsors musical performances and coordinates music education.

Juniper Jam tickets are $20 in advance at Wallowa County locations, including Joseph Hardware, The Book-loft, The Dollar Stretcher or online at www.juniperjam.com. Kids 12 and under are free. Camping is available for $5 per night. Tickets purchased at the gate are $25.

For more information, including other musical performances Aug. 30 through Sept. 2, or to register for the guitar workshop, visit www.juniperjam.com.

PENDLETON

Bette Lynch Husted

Terrific Tuesday
features Husted book signing

PENDLETON — Local author Bette Lynch Husted will be on hand during the upcoming Terrific Tuesday event at Heritage Station Museum.

Husted, who recently published her first novel, “All Coyote’s Children” (Oregon State University Press), will read selections from the book and sign copies. The free event is Tuesday, Sept. 4 from 7-8:30 p.m. at 108 S.W. Frazer Ave., Pendleton. Copies of the book will be available for purchase.

A work of contemporary fiction, it focuses on the life of Annie Fallon, recently widowed and living on a ranch in Eastern Oregon. In addition to the loss of her husband, Fallon is grappling with her son’s rehab and her own mental health crisis. Befriended by a Umatilla-Cayuse neighbor, Fallon learns how to go on living without her husband through the help of friends and neighbors.

Husted has authored three previous publications, including a pair of autobiographical memoirs.

For more information about Umatilla County Historical Society events, call 541-276-0012 or visit www.heritagestationmuseum.org.
