

OBITUARIES

Harry Trump

Hermiston

February 21, 1927 - October 17, 2018

Trump

Our father was born on February 21, 1927 in Maxville, Ore., and passed into heaven on October 17, 2018 at Good Shepherd Medical Center in Hermiston. Dad lived a long and prosperous life, and a life of service — service to his family, service to his community, service to his church, and service to his God.

At five years of age, he met the love of his life, Erma Stubblefield. They went through school together and worked at the local newspaper. Eventually they were married in Nampa, Idaho, in 1950.

Dad graduated from Eastern Oregon College and embarked on a career in education that spanned 34 years. In Elgin, Ore., he was principal and taught eighth grade. If that wasn't enough, he also worked at the local sawmill and managed the local skating rink/fast food business. In those days, we knew nearly everyone in town. Grandparents were only a few blocks away; our Uncle Jack was chief of police, other aunts and uncles were close by. Dad was very close to his father Lacey and we spent many days in his orchard, learning how to milk a cow and eating green apples. We were all blessed with an idyllic childhood in Elgin.

In 1960, our family packed up and moved to Hermiston, the "big city" of 4,400. After teaching at Sunset Elementary for two years, Dad became the first principal of Rocky Heights Elementary School. We lived on Jennie Avenue for five years and established many lifelong friendships. In fact, when our family first arrived at the new home, there was a 6-year-old Mexican lad waiting on our porch, Willie Vasquez. He became our lifelong friend and honorary brother. We could walk anywhere we needed go. Life was simple and sweet back then. No internet, very little TV and yet we got together and had great times playing baseball, or roaming around town. Playing along with the Beatles with our rubber-band guitars. Great stuff.

Dad was strict with us growing up, but always showed great wisdom. However, he was a gentle soul who could not bring himself to spank his kids. Luckily, Mom did very well at discipline! On the rare occasion Dad tried to spank us, we would only laugh. He always had a great sense of humor, and as we got older, showed

Patricia Ann Knight

Milton-Freewater

June 6, 1944 - October 9, 2018

Patricia Ann Knight was born June 6, 1944, the day the allied forces landed at Normandy, to Naval Lieutenant Commander Oscar and Elizabeth Knight. The oldest of four children, Pat attended school in Elgin and Milton-Freewater, where she was active in ballet and was crowned Pea Festival Princess and Miss Walla Walla. She attended Eastern Oregon College and the University of Portland where she studied to be a social worker.

Pat was very involved in the Native American community and considered the Umatilla tribe her extended family. Pat spent most of her life as a working photographer, both freelance and in commercial studios. Her work has been featured in galleries and publications throughout the Northwest including Native American cultural centers. Her biggest joy was teaching photography to aspiring artists of all ages including Elgin's "Art Rocks" program. Pat returned to the Knight ranch outside of Elgin, Ore., and has spent the last two decades teaching photography, showing in galleries and selling specialty food products. It is here she felt the most at home.

Pat passed away in Milton-Freewater on October 9th and is survived by her son Michael Stinnett of Soldotna, Alaska, and grandchildren Joshua, Aiden and Caileigh; and daughter Mary Lee of Bellevue, Wash., and grandson Dylan Gary. She is survived by her three brothers, Douglas, James and Francis, as well as many nieces and nephews.

If you would like to honor the life and memory of Pat, please consider purchasing artwork or goods from a local artist or farmer or make a donation in her name to the Wildhorse Foundation, which supports the arts, cultural activities, education, salmon restoration and more for the Tribes of the Umatilla Reservation (www.thewildhorsefoundation.com).

The family will host a memorial service in the Elgin/Pendleton area in honor of Pat's 75th birthday in June. More details to come.

Todd Bol, founder of Little Free Library book sharing, dies

HUDSON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin man who founded Little Free Library, a project that now sets up boxes for sharing books around the world, has died. Todd Bol was 62.

A spokeswoman for Little Free Library says Bol died Thursday in a Minnesota hospice of complications from pancreatic cancer.

Bol designed and built the first Little Free Library at his home in Hudson, Wisconsin, in 2009, as a tribute to his mother, who was a teacher and book lover. Bol put up a miniature version of a one-room schoolhouse on a post outside his home, filled it with books and invited neighbors to borrow them.

The boxes have since popped up across the U.S. and spread to more than 80 countries, with more than 75,000 registered Little Free Libraries worldwide. The whimsical boxes invite passers-by to "take a book, share a book."

US stocks wobble at the end of another shaky week of trading

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. stocks gave up an early rally Friday and struggled to another mixed finish as investors continued to sell former favorites like retailers. Household goods makers rose again as a week of choppy trading concluded.

Stocks surged in early trading after better-than-expected reports from companies, including Procter & Gamble, American Express and PayPal. Procter & Gamble, the world's largest consumer products maker, had its biggest rally in 10 years. But the gains for indexes faded after a report showed U.S.

home sales fell for the sixth month in a row. That hurt smaller and more U.S.-focused companies.

The market settled back into its usual pattern from the last two weeks.
