

OBITUARIES

Derek Curtis Houle

Pendleton
June 30, 1974 — April 6, 2019

Derek Curtis Houle passed away April 6, 2019, at home of natural causes. A celebration of life will be held on April 20, 2019, at 2:00 p.m. at Pendleton Pioneer Chapel, Folsom-Bishop.

Eight minutes after his twin sister, Dannette, Derek was born on June 30, 1974, to Danny and Gloria Houle at Monticello Medical Center in Longview, Wash.

He attended R.A. Long High School. At 16, he achieved his GED and went on to study at the Art Institute of Seattle. He was a brilliantly talented musician and was an avid reader and lifetime learner.

Derek is survived by his children Kaitlin R. L. Ward-Houle, Allen Jay Grimes-Houle, Joseph Mackin Houle, and Zoe Noelle

Houle; grandchildren Alexander James Grimes, Rosalie Marie Brewer and Dean William Grimes; parents Danny and Gloria Houle; siblings Randal and Shelley Houle of Vancouver, Wash., Steve and Dannette (Houle) Miller of Camas, Wash., and Jeremy and Carla Houle of Pekin, Ill.; five nieces and five nephews; and a large extended family of aunts, uncles and cousins.

He was preceded in death by his grandparents Elwin C. and Donna L. Houle and Albert R. and Bunnie J. Zander, and his cat Scram.

His music is available on iTunes and YouTube as artists Derek Houle and Zanag Kraun.

Condolences may be posted at www.pioneerchapel.com.

Dean Brandon Crosgrove

Pendleton
November 5, 1993 — February 20, 2019

Dean Brandon Crosgrove, 25, born in The Dalles, Oregon, on November 5, 1993, passed away peacefully in Zihuatanejo, Mexico, on February 20, 2019, doing what he loved most. It was a tranquil and pleasant afternoon filled with friends, family, beer, and nature.

Son of Amy Augustus and Brandon Crosgrove, older brother to Hailey Crosgrove of Pendleton and Joshua Augustus of The Dalles. Grandson to Ron and Elvis Lemarr of Pendleton and Stu Nagel of The Dalles.

His memory and legacy will live on with us forever. Dean will, however, not be alone on his journey. Buried next to his Aunt Kai, he will once again see his best friend AmyJane Brandhagen, great-grandmother Millie Nagel, and idol Steve Irwin.

We would like to take this time to thank everyone who showed their support to the family in their time of need and everyone who helped make this process as easy as possible for all.

Dean, although not religious, was a spiritual man who believed that when one passed, they would turn into a star while waiting for the right era to return. Until you return Dean, we will miss you.

A celebration will be held at 1:00 p.m. Saturday, April 20 at the Pendleton Eagles Lodge, 428 S. Main St., Pendleton.

In this Nov. 14, 2011, file photo, Hall of Fame football player Forrest Gregg talks about his battle with Parkinson's disease during an interview in Colorado Springs, Colo.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Forrest Gregg, the great Hall of Fame lineman for the mighty Green Bay Packers of the 1960s that Vince Lombardi called the “finest player I ever coached,” died Friday at age 85.

Barbara Gregg said her husband of 59 years died in Colorado Springs from complications of Parkinson's disease.

“I lost my sweetheart this morning,” she said. “It's awful. He died in my arms.”

She said that in the last two weeks her husband received a constant flow of calls from former teammates and players telling him he'd made such a big difference in their lives.

“I'm overwhelmed at the amount of people that loved Forrest, of the number of players that said he made men out of them,” she said. “Forrest loved people. He loved everybody. He loved his children. He loved me. And it just broke my heart. My heart is broken.”

She said the funeral will be sometime next week in Colorado Springs and open to the public.

Other survivors include their son, Forrest Gregg Jr., of Cincinnati, and daughter, Karen Gregg-Spehar, of Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Hall of Fame president David Baker described Gregg, who was enshrined in 1977, as a “giant” who “exemplified greatness during a legendary career.”

“He was the type of player who led by example and, in doing so, raised the level of play of all those around him,” Baker said. “Forrest symbolized many great traits and virtues that can be learned from this and coaching days, and “I don't need anything from anybody but what I earned.”

A guard and tackle, Gregg is one of four NFL players to win a half dozen NFL championships, including the first two Super Bowls with the Packers. Gregg finished his career with another Super Bowl title with the Cowboys in 1971. The six-time All-Pro and nine-time Pro Bowler was elected to the NFL's all-decade team of the 1960s and to its 75th anniversary team.

He went on to coach in the NFL for 11 years with the Browns (1975-77), Bengals (1980-83) and Packers (1984-87).

Bengals president Mike Brown on Friday recalled his good friend as one who got the best out of his players.

“He was demanding. The players didn't try to cut corners,” Brown said in a statement. “They went out and did what they had to do, and what we were doing worked. We were somewhat ahead of the curve at the time.”

Packers coach Matt Lefleur tweeted a famous photo of a mud-caked Gregg and wrote, “I'd like to extend my deepest sympathies to the family of a true Packers legend, Forrest Gregg. This picture has been hanging in my home office for the last 10 years and serves as a great reminder of what a tough competitor Forrest was.”

After playing 15 NFL seasons, Gregg won 75 games as an NFL head coach and guided the Bengals to their first Super Bowl during the 1981 season, when they lost 26-21 to Joe Montana and the San Francisco 49ers.

Yet, “the finest bunch of players I was ever around,”
