

Pendleton team looks to open ozone therapy center

By ANTONIO SIERRA
East Oregonian

A nurse practitioner and a tire shop owner are teaming up to open Pendleton's first ozone therapy facility.

Scott Sullivan, the owner of Pendleton Tire Factory, and Michele Davies, a nurse practitioner at Eastern Oregon Correctional Institution, aim to open the Center for Ozone Therapy on June 1.

Both are converts to the therapy after using ozone injections to heal chronic pain issues.

Sullivan said the pain in his shoulders was so great that he could no longer fly fish or rope.

Staring down a potential $10,000 to $12,000 bill for shoulder replacement surgery, Sullivan went to get ozone therapy in Washington, which he said has healed him of his pain over several sessions.

Davies was skeptical herself until she was given an ozone injection at a training and stopped feeling pain from a knot in her back.

Despite the owners' enthusiasm, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration does not approve of ozone therapy.

"Ozone is a toxic gas with no known useful medical application in specific, adjunctive, or preventive therapy," the FDA states. "In order for ozone to be effective as a germicide, it must be present in a concentration far greater than that which can be safely tolerated by man and animals."

Sullivan and Davies argued that there are other treatments that are not approved by the FDA, and ozone therapy has an international following.

Davies said that if a customer gives ozone therapy a try and doesn't see results, she won't begrudge customers who don't return.

Regardless of the wider contention surrounding ozone therapy, Sullivan and Davies said they're already starting to generate interest and potential patients just through word of mouth.

The Center for Ozone Therapy will be located in the Sierra Professional Building at 202 S.E. Dorion Ave.

Staff photo by Antonio Sierra
Co-owner Michele Davies, pictured, and Scott Sullivan both say they've received pain relief from ozone therapy.

AP Photo/Richard Drew

In this May 9, 2019, file photo, traders Gregory Rowe and Benjamin Tuchman work on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

U.S. stocks rebound, but S&P 500 ends with 3rd weekly loss

By DAMIAN J. TROISE
AND ALEX VEIGA
AP Business Writers

Stocks on Wall Street notched modest gains Friday, erasing some of the market's steep losses from a day earlier.

The upbeat finish to a turbulent week still left the market with its third straight weekly loss.

Stocks swung between gains and losses all week as investors weighed the prospect of a prolonged trade war between the U.S. and China. Trading has been volatile since the dispute escalated earlier this month, with both sides raising tariffs on each other's goods.

Financial companies led the buying Friday as the yield on the 10-year Treasury note reversed part of a steep slide a day earlier. Rising yields boost interest rates on loans, which makes lending more profitable.

The modest gains snapped a two-day losing streak for the S&P 500 as investors saw opportunity after the previous days' wave of selling.

"Today you're just seeing a rebound, really almost across the board, so that tells you yesterday everything was just being sold with no rhyme or reason," said Ben Phillips, chief investment officer at EventShares.

The S&P 500 rose 3.82 points, or 0.1%, to 2,826.06. The benchmark index ended the week with a 2.3% loss.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average gained 95.22 points, or 0.4%, to 25,585.69. The Nasdaq composite added 8.72 points, or 0.1%, to 7,637.01.

Small company stocks fared better than the rest of the market. The Russell 2000 index climbed 12.73 points, or 0.9%, to 1,514.11.

Major stock indexes in Europe finished broadly higher.

The market's modest rebound came ahead of a three-day holiday weekend.

Wild Goose Designs to host winning artist

By JADE MCDOWELL
East Oregonian

Wild Goose Design in downtown Hermiston is hosting artist Laura Gable on June 6.

Shoppers can meet the Kennewick-based artist and browse her work for sale from 4:30-7:30 p.m. as part of June's First Thursday event downtown. Wild Goose Design is located at 215 E. Main St.

A collection of Gable's oil paintings won first place at the Hermiston Art Festival on May 18, and her work has been shown in public galleries and private collections throughout the country. Her paintings of life in Eastern Washington have made their way into various national magazines, including the cover of SkyWest.

Wild Goose Design owner Bonnie Greiner said she is excited to host Gable.

Bonnie and her husband Glenn Greiner opened their Main Street storefront a few months ago. The shop features home decor, furniture, art, jewelry, soap, greeting cards, clothing, garden decorations, food and more made in Oregon and Washington.

Staff photo by Jade McDowell

One of artist Laura Gable's paintings sits on display at Wild Goose Design in Hermiston. Gable will be visiting the shop on June 6.

Much of the store's offerings, including jewelry and furniture, are made in Hermiston by the couple. Bonnie said Glenn is a "fabulous carpenter" who makes pieces from scratch and refurbishes vintage items.

"We do a lot of custom work," she said.

While the Main Street storefront is new, the Greiners are no strangers to the business. They have been in Hermiston for more than 48 years — raising five daughters in the Hermiston school system along the way — and have had various businesses in the past.

For years they have brought their wares to trade shows and sold them to gift shops and furniture stores, but Bonnie said they are pleased to be back to selling directly to Hermiston residents.

"We are excited about being in Hermiston," she said. "There are a lot of exciting things going on for a small town."

She said they hope people will realize the value of buying something custom-made by a local business instead of mass-produced in China.

Hours at Wild Goose Design are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. For more information call 509-528-7121 or visit @wildgoosedesign215 on Instagram.

Eagle Cap Excursion Train

WE WILL BE CLOSED
IN OBSERVANCE OF
MEMORIAL DAY,
MAY 27TH
EAST OREGONIAN

Not Your Grandma's Nursing Home

Today's assisted living is a departure from nursing homes of the past. We love Bingo too, but we also love senior rodeos, ladies night out, and other exciting activities that you won't want to miss. Take the first step to experience the difference!

Want to know more?
Tour today and stay for lunch on us!

McKay Creek Estates
1601 Southgate Pl.
Pendleton, OR 97801
(541) 406-7134

Prestige Senior Living, L.L.C.

www.PrestigeCare.com