Young actors participate in the final performance of the 2017 Summer Youth Theatre Camp. Registrations are now open for the 2019 camp, which is July 22-27 at Blue Mountain Community College in Pendleton.

Photography exhibit features hybrid technique

PENDLETON — The photographs of David Webber start with images from the real world, and through transformation they become hybrid forms.

An exhibit featuring his work opens with a public reception Friday from 5:30-7 p.m. at Pendleton Center for the Arts, 214 N. Main St. There is no admission charge.

Webber's photos are said to confuse the boundaries of their reference and challenge the viewers' perception of what they are seeing. Superimposing images through layering, he pushes them to varying degrees of density by creating simple composites, fields of color and meshed textures.

An assistant professor of new media at the University of Central Oklahoma, Webber teaches video, sound, installation and interactive art. As an artist, he works primarily with time-based media and interactive installations. In his spare time, Webber makes analog synthesizers and electro-acoustic music.

Executive director Roberta Lavadour said the exhibit is extremely unique. In addition, she urges people to attend the reception for a chance to visit with Webber.

"It will be a rare opportunity for local artists, students and the general public to talk with someone working in the field of new media," she said.

Gallery hours are Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturdays from noon to 4 p.m. The exhibit runs through July 27.

CCT stages youth theater camp

PENDLETON — Aspiring young actors and others interested in behind-the-scenes activities related to theater are encouraged to register for the 2019 Summer Youth Theatre Camp.

Coordinated by College Community Theatre, the weeklong day camp includes theatrical activities under the direction of theatre professionals from the Portland area. Open to youths ages 7-18, daily activities include theatre games, specialty workshops and rehearsals.

The camp is July 22 through 26 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. It takes place in and around Bob Clapp Theatre, located in Pioneer Hall at Blue Mountain Community College, 2411 N.W. Carden Ave., Pendleton. The cost is $75 per camper. Participants need to bring their own lunch and beverage each day; mid-morning snacks will be provided.

Also, camp participants will stage a public performance Saturday, July 27 at 7 p.m. in Bob Clapp Theatre. There is no admission charge but donations are welcome.

The 2019 camp is sponsored by grants, donations and support from the Umatilla County Cultural Coalition, Blue Mountain Community Foundation, CHI St Anthony Hospital, Pendleton on Wheels, Roosters Country Kitchen and BMCC.

With openings for 70 participants, early registration is encouraged. For more information or to register, visit www.bluecc.edu/

cct. For questions, call 541-278-5930.

Whitman Mission hosts Year of Indigenous Languages event

WALLA WALLA — Kids activities, a ranger guided walk, a special junior ranger program and native speaker presentations are featured during an event at Whitman Mission National Historic Site.

The United Nations declared 2019 as the Year of Indigenous Language. Whitman Mission is hosting a celebration Saturday, July 13 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The site is located 8 miles west of Walla Walla off Highway 12. People are invited to learn more about indigenous languages spoken by their neighbors and community members, past and present.

The Whitman Mission park grounds are open from sunrise through sunset. The visitor center is open daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is no admission fee.
