

Trap: Mabbott has top team average at 24.25

While there are different people on the team this year, Mabbott is confident. "Our team is looking good," he said. "It's all about your mindset. You have to watch what you say to people and what you do the night before." And, just like any sport, there is trash talk. "Some of us have gotten pretty good at it," Mabbott said. "One of the most things you can say to get in their head is, 'The targets are flying funny.'"

Practice makes perfect

While Hamilton has only been shooting for two years, most of the guys on the team have been shooting for many more. "Some people pick it up pretty quick," Mabbott said. "I was not one of them. I've shot for a long time. I've been shooting since seventh grade, but didn't get heavy into it until my freshman year. Tyson, Kaden and I have been shooting together for a long time. Kaden used to shoot better than all of us — it's all in his head." Hamilton said her dad,

Derek, taught her to shoot. "My dad is a very good shot, and he's taught me 90 percent of what I know," she said. "The guys are extremely supportive. They are by my side to make sure I have everything I need. I never feel left out."

There's still that one burning question. "I can beat my dad now, any day of the week," Hamilton said.

It takes a village

The trap team is a club sport, but it still receives support from the school district, which is covering lodging at nationals.

The Hermiston Gun Club offers support, and the team has a grant from the Blue Mountain Chapter of Friends of the NRA, which supplies the ammo and targets for the team.

There also are private donors, and the team has gotten support from the high school booster club.

The parents still are having to foot part of the bill for the trip to nationals, but they are thankful for the support they have received.

"We are appreciative of everything people have done for us," coach Smith said.

broadened that advantage with another RBI. But Pendleton watched as the game quickly slipped out of reach as Meridian's Austin Fehlman singled on a 2-2 count in the top of the sixth, driving in a pair of runs.

But the Diamondjazz found redemption in the following contest against the Tehama Bulls with a 9-3 victory.

Firing up the offense right out the gate, Pendleton drove in three runs in the top of the first. With the bases loaded, Jack Monkman's ground ball scored an RBI, and two subsequent walks gave Pendleton a 3-0 lead that Tehama could never overcome.

Payton Lambert sent a fly ball to center field in the top of the sixth, scoring two runs. Monkman hit another RBI single later on to cap off Pendleton's second three-run inning of the game.

Kobe Fell had two runs and an RBI to lead the Diamondjazz against the Bulls, and Monkman went 2-for-5 at bat and posted another run and two RBIs.

Peal had a perfect 4-for-4 showing at the plate, and chipped in another three runs. He also struck out six Bulls, giving up six hits and three walks.

The momentum wouldn't last, however, as the Diamondjazz wrapped the tournament up with a 9-1 loss to the Washington-based Asotin legion team on Sunday morning.

Pendleton's lone run came in the top of the fourth when Lambert doubled and crossed home two at-bats later.

Asotin's Jon Bean was relentless on the mound, striking out ten over six innings, allowing only one run.

The Diamondjazz (14-11) return home today with a doubleheader against Irrigon. First pitch is at 5 p.m. at Bob White Field.

out Willson Contreras, Ketel Marte and Ronald Acuna Jr. in the fifth.

Fittingly, the first batter of the game was the guy who leads the majors in home runs — Yelich, the NL MVP with 31 homers at the break, hit leadoff for the first time this year.

Yelich lined out and Verlander, featuring 97 mph heat, quickly fanned Javier Báez and Freddie Freeman to finish his work. Those juiced balls that Verlander is complaining about? Didn't bother him a bit.

Báez came up again in the third with a bright red bat, stepped out of the box and playfully waved to his pal Francisco Lindor in the AL dugout.

NL starter Hyun-Jin Ryu, Mets ace Jacob deGrom and Luis Castillo threw scoreless innings to keep the NL close in the early going.

Pittsburgh slugger Josh Bell was part of the youngest starting lineup in All-Star history, with the NL crew averaging under 26 years old.

Pendleton All-Comers to host final track meet this weekend at PHS

PENDLETON — Calling all athletes: This weekend is your last chance to join the Pendleton All-Comers track and field meet.

The final of three meets will take place this Friday and Saturday at the Pendleton High School track. The series, hosted by the Rising Phoenix Track Club, Round-Up City Racers, and the Buckaroo track and cross-country teams, is open to any and all local residents, giving anyone a chance to compete in a track and field meet close to home.

"(The All-Comers track meets are) an opportunity to try new events, shake off the rust in familiar events, and compete across generations," organizer Ben Bradley said in a press release.

Running events are held on Friday at 6 p.m. Throwing and jumping events will follow on Saturday at 9 a.m. There is a $10 entry fee per athlete for up to four events in each meet.

For more information on registration, volunteering, and sponsoring athletes, visit the Rising Phoenix Track Club website at risingphoenixtc.com. Meet results will also be posted online.

For direct questions, contact Bradley at coachbenbradley@gmail.com, or by phone at 541-619-3437.
