Four for Moore: WNBA All-Star Game tips off in Vegas

By Ryan Guebert
TV Media

The best players in the WNBA are set to tip off at the Mandalay Bay Events Center in Las Vegas, Nevada, for the 16th WNBA All-Star Game. Voted in by fans, players and a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters, the teams have been picked and starting lineups are already determined. Tune in Saturday, July 27, for live coverage of the action on ABC.

This will be the first WNBA All-Star game played in Las Vegas, and Aces head coach Bill Laimbeer has shared how excited the team is in the lead-up to the event: "In Las Vegas, putting on a show is what we do.

... We expect to provide the WNBA players and fans with an experience like nothing they have seen before." For a franchise that hasn't seen the playoffs since the 2014 season, having the opportunity to celebrate the best that the WNBA has to offer could be the motivation that the Aces players and fans need.

Last year was the first WNBA All-Star Game that abandoned the East vs. West format and followed the NBA revamp that saw team captains choose their rosters. Team Candace Parker defeated Team Elena Delle Donne 119-112 in front of an almost sold-out Target Center in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Maya Moore of the Minnesota Lynx was named the All-Star Game MVP for her 18 points, eight rebounds and six assists, which made her the first three-peat MVP award winner in WNBA All-Star Game history.

The Aces hope their 2018 first overall pick, A'ja Wilson, can perform some hometown heroics similar to what Moore did last year and earn the MVP award. Wilson had similar stats to Moore, scoring 18 points, five rebounds and one assist in her first All-Star Game appearance, and she has proven to be a dominant force on the court. Moore, of course, will be looking for her fourth MVP title in a row.

Tune in Saturday, July 27, when the WNBA All-Star Game tips off at the Mandalay Bay Events Center in Las Vegas. Catch live action of the game on ABC.
