The Geordie dream: Steve Bruce's Newcastle United takes on Brighton

By Ryan Guebert
TV Media

Two clubs that narrowly escaped relegation last season go head to head in Gameweek 6. Tune in Saturday, Sept. 21, as Brighton and Hove Albion take on Newcastle United at St. James' Park in Newcastle upon Tyne. Catch live coverage of the action on NBC.

A self-confessed "Geordie," Steve Bruce realized a childhood dream this summer when he was appointed manager of his boyhood club, Newcastle United. He took over after Rafa Benítez stepped down as manager following a contentious season with the rest of the club's management. Benítez was critical of management for its unwillingness to spend on proven talent during the transfer windows, talent that would help the club compete for a higher position in the league table. Newcastle lost club favorite Ayoze Pérez to Leicester City for a fee of £30 million, but ended up spending £65 million in the process of rebuilding the squad.

Newcastle United started their campaign with two losses — one thanks to Arsenal, and one handed down from newly promoted Norwich City. In the third week of the new season, Bruce's side surprised the world by securing an away win over Tottenham Hotspur. Three thousand fans made the long trip to North London to witness new addition Joelinton score his first Premier League goal in the 1-0 victory at Tottenham Hotspur Stadium. The Brazilian striker became Newcastle United's new record signing, costing the club £40 million.

Once someone who had to sneak into St. James' Park to watch the Geordies play, Bruce will have the best seat in the house on Saturday, Sept. 21, while earning a sweet salary when Newcastle United host Brighton and Hove Albion. Both clubs could find themselves in a relegation battle later in the season, so it will be a must-win match for both sides. Catch the action live on NBC.
