A star is born: Pulisic leads Chelsea into Manchester City clash

By Ryan Guebert
TV Media

Chelsea entered the 2019-20 Premier League season with one of the youngest squads in the league, led by newly appointed manager Frank Lampard. They take on the experienced Manchester City, led by Pep Guardiola, on Saturday, Nov. 23, with live coverage on NBC.

Just a matter of weeks ago, Christian Pulisic wasn't even a consideration in Lampard's starting 11. After starting three of the first four matches of the season, Pulisic found himself on the bench, making only brief appearances toward the end of the matches — he was even snubbed from the lineup in Chelsea's Champions League win over Lille.

Despite the American star's price tag of $73 million, Lampard has refused to give him any special treatment and has forced Pulisic to earn every minute he gets on the pitch.

Only a handful of American players have found success in England's top flight, all of whom had renowned work rates. Brian McBride and Clint Dempsey became fan favorites at Fulham, Tim Howard was Everton's starting goalkeeper for 10 seasons and DeAndre Yedlin has been able to maintain his role as the starting right-back for the past three seasons with Newcastle United. Pulisic understands the effort needed to succeed in the Premier League, and the 21-year-old vows to put in the work. He said, "[Lampard] likes players who work very hard and show a lot in training, and I just have to continue to do that, do my best in training and try to earn my position."

In his fourth Premier League start, Pulisic was able to prove his quality after netting a "perfect" hat trick in Chelsea's 4-2 victory over Burnley on Oct. 26. He became only the second American to record a hat trick (after Dempsey, who scored three goals in Fulham's 5-2 victory over Newcastle United in 2012). If Pulisic can maintain the form at which he is currently playing, it won't be long until he is confidently Eden Hazard's successor at Chelsea.

Pulisic will have the opportunity to put his skill on display when Chelsea faces Premier League champion Manchester City on Saturday, Nov. 23. Catch live action from Etihad Stadium in Manchester on NBC.
