instrumental in our attack going forward.”

Spanish exchange junior Jamie Rico-Mendoza was an all-conference honorable mention, and led the Bucks with 13 goals on the season, tying the school record. He and senior forward Jon Lopez also tied the school record for the most hat tricks in a season with one each.

The Bucks ended the season at No. 4 in the IMC standings, going 6-6-2 overall and 5-4-1 in league action. They capped off the year with a 2-0 home victory over the league's previously top-ranked Ridgeview Ravens.

“We've got a great team,” Erazo said. “It's unfortunate that we didn't make playoffs, but it was a great season overall.”

Girls soccer

Lindsey Pasena Little Sky left an impression on the Intermountain Conference in her first year as a starting player.

The Pendleton sophomore goalkeeper was named the league's Conference Keeper of the Year.

“As a first-year goalkeeper, she was phenomenal,” Pendleton head coach Paul Parker said. “She has a natural athletic ability. It was a tough year — there were a lot of shots on her all season long. But she had an innate ability to work through the difficult times quickly and get back and focused. She's been an extremely valuable asset to the team.”

Sophomore forward Reilly Lovercheck was named to the IMC's first team, and sister Kelsey Lovercheck, a sophomore midfielder, was an all-conference honorable mention. They were the Bucks' only two returning starters this year.

“They're quite a pair,” Parker said. “They have an extremely high self-motivated inclination. They have a desire to be better all the time. They're probably two of the most driven athletes that we've seen in the past three or four years. They fought through early season injuries and came back strong. They're a great pair to have on any team.”

The Bucks ranked No. 5 in the league standings at 2-12 overall and 2-8 in the conference.

“It was rough,” Parker said. “We were really young. What was amazing about this team is that they just kept improving and kept playing. There was no quit in them. We knew from the beginning it was going to be a rough year. They were in several matches, but their youth and inexperience kind of won out. But there was no quit. I'm really excited about the prospects about this particular team in the next few years to come.”

never satisfied.”

Wagner, a junior, averaged 33.9 yards per punt this season. He had 34 punts that covered 1,153 yards.

The 6-6, 300-pound Coughlin was named to the honorable mention team for the second year in a row.

Kamiakin running back Tuna Altahir was named Offensive Player of the Year by the league coaches, while Chiawana defensive lineman Bridger Feldman was named Defensive Player of the Year.

Baylor McElroy of Kennewick, Washington, was voted Lineman of the Year, and Des Licon of Pasco, Washington, was the Special Teams Player of the Year.

Chiawana's Steve Graff was named Coach of the Year, after leading the Riverhawks to an 8-0 record during the regular season.
