COMMUNITY BRIEFING

BMCC offers free finance course

PENDLETON — The Blue Mountain Small Business Development Center is offering a six-week Profit Mastery program at absolutely no charge to the first 100 participants to register.

The course, usually costing $895, is funded thanks to SBA CARES Act funds.

BMCC SBDC has partnered with Profit Mastery and its founder, Steve LeFever, to offer a program to help participants evaluate a business’ current financial outlook, manage business by the numbers and offer the tools to focus on the growth and the increase in revenue and capital needed to be successful.

Profit Mastery will start Wednesday, Oct. 21, and run each Wednesday through Nov. 25. Live sessions start at 9 a.m. each Wednesday and run about 20 to 30 minutes. The live sessions are an introduction to the week’s module and then it’s self paced to a participants’ schedule throughout the week. Those who can’t view the initial live sessions can receive a recording of that session via email.

The SBDC helps clients in all stages of business, whether it’s getting started with the planning process or a business that is well established, growing fast and needing some additional support.

To register, email your name and contact number to Andrea Fowler at afowler@bluecc.edu, or call the SBDC office at 541-278-5833. Spots will fill up fast, so register early.

Fair trade craft sale coming soon

PENDLETON — The First Presbyterian Church of Pendleton usually holds its Soup Supper fundraiser in the fall, but due to COVID-19 restrictions on gatherings and social distancing protocols, the church staff has decided to shelve the supper for 2020.

However, the popular fair trade crafts sale will still be held to give shoppers access to a large assortment of unique and beautiful holiday gift ideas.

The sale will be held Friday, Nov. 6, from 4-7 p.m., and Saturday, Nov. 7, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the church’s Rogers Fellowship Room, 201 S.W. Dorion Ave. Masks are required, and social-distancing protocols will followed.

The craft items available are made by fair trade artisans in developing countries world-wide, including nativities, gift items, kitchen items, ornaments, jewelry, toys, home decor, olive oil, coffee and chocolate. Proceeds benefit the church’s work supporting fair trade artists.

For more information, call Alison Moses at 541-276-7681.

Irrigon plans trunk-or-treat event

IRRIGON — A socially distanced trunk-or-treat event will be held Saturday, Oct. 31, from 4-7 p.m. on Northeast Main Avenue in Irrigon.

Sponsored by the city of Irrigon, residents can sign up to park their car along the street between the post office and A.C. Houghton Elementary School and provide candy to families as a COVID-19-safe alternative to door-to-door trick-or-treating.

People wishing to provide treats must sign up at city hall, and all treats must be wrapped.

For more information, call Irrigon City Manager Aaron Palmquist at 541-922-3047 or email manager@ci.irrigon.or.us.

BMCC awards Foundation scholarships

PENDLETON — The Blue Mountain Community College (BMCC) Foundation announced 127 students are awarded 132 Foundation scholarships for the academic year 2020-2021.

Scholarships are awarded on a criterion for academic performance and need, which covers tuition and educational expenses while attending BMCC. These students share a goal to make a positive impact in their communities and the world. The Foundation receives nearly 200 scholarship applications from students across 10 Oregon counties and four adjacent states.

“We have an outstanding cross-section of students this year. One theme that stood out, again and again, is the importance of perspective, and how problem-solving in any relationship or obstacle is always best facilitated when approached with an openmind and willingness to look at things from all sides,” said Ken Daniel, executive director. “We all have so much to learn from these students and their thoughtful insights.”

For more information, or for those wanting to contribute to the BMCC Foundation, contact Daniel at 541-278-5775 or email kdanield@bluecc.edu.
