DEAR ABBY

COFFEE BREAK

Young professional can't escape dating gossip

Dear Abby: I'm a girl of 23 who has never had a boyfriend. Now that I finished college and am a journalist, I have met some guys, mostly from high school and places like that. One of them, who went to my middle school, recently asked me on a date. Another one from high school asked me out, too, in the same week. (Neither one ever talked to me in the respective schools.) Even if I wanted to go out, I'm a little nervous because I've never been on a date. What do you think I have to do? I know I shouldn't care about what my family and friends say, but they are gossips.

Feeling Weird in Mexico Dear Feeling Weird: I'm glad you wrote. You do not have to do anything except calm down and get to know who these guys are. You should not rush into anything. Romances evolve from friendships, and friendships take time and effort. Hang on to your sense of humor, and remember: You are at the beginning of an interesting career and life journey. Stop worrying about the gossips, and take advantage of the opportunities that are opening up for you.

Dear Abby: My mother and her companion recently moved to be closer to me (20 minutes away). The problem is I don't really care for her companion, and he is always around my mom. He comes over to my house when she does, plops himself in our den and turns on the TV loud. (We always close the door because he needs a hearing aid.)

JEANNE PHILLIPS ADVICE

We now need to replace the reclining chairs in the den. He weighs more than 300 > pounds, and I can't find a loveseat or chairs that can accommodate his weight. He won't allow Mom to drive herself over here. What can I do? I would like comfortable seating in my den, but I don't want furniture that will break the first time he sits on it. — Imposed Upon in the South

> Dear Imposed Upon: You are under no obligation to buy furniture to accommodate someone you "don't particularly like." Tell your mother you will provide the transportation when she wants to visit you. (Her companion can pick her up when she's ready to go home, or you can take her.) Problem solved.

Dear Abby: When six of us women got together for lunch, one gal brought copies of her mother's newly published book of poetry. The book was $20. After describing the book and her mother, she offered one to each of us to purchase! We're not poor, but I thought she showed poor taste by pushing this book on us. We all bought one because we felt obligated. What's your opinion about what she did? What would have been a tactful way to refuse? — Dumbstruck

Dear Dumbstruck: You could have thanked the woman for offering the book, told her you are sure it was "wonderful" and refused by saying, "But I'm just not into poetry!"

Tex Smith, buckaroo, and champion bulldogger at the 1920 Pendleton Round-Up, is being held in custody at Cadwell, Idaho, with Roy Snyder, on a charge of stealing an Auburn car from G. Reed, of Nampa. It is alleged that the two left Nampa with a car that they appropriated and it is supposed that they are the ones that robbed a store at Emmett of about $2,000 worth of silk goods, a garage at Vale and a store at Crane of several hundred dollars worth of merchandise and also a shop and garage at Fallon, Nevada. In getting away from Fallon they were pursued by the sheriff and two men whom he had deputized and in a running fight the sheriff was seriously wounded and the men escaped.

The bodies of five members of the Dr. Clarence Tannell family were removed Friday by searchers from a timbered ridge at the head of Little Johnson Creek, about 14 air miles southeast of Pendleton, where their light plane crashed Monday. The Longview, Wash., family left Kelso, Wash., in their Piper Challenger Sunday night en route to Wisconsin and Michigan to visit relatives. No flight plan was filed. It was not known they were missing until Wednesday when they failed to show up in the Midwest as expected. The plane, piloted by Tannell, had last been heard from Monday over Pendleton when Tannell radioed for weather information.
