BAKER CITY — Crossroads Carnegie Art Center has announced the winning works at the 23rd annual Open Regional Art Show, which opened Sept. 3.

"This year brought in an eclectic collection of top tier pieces from Baker City and the surrounding areas in a way that fully displayed the diversity of personalities within our art community," said Alyson Spiering, art director.

The show is on display at the center, 2020 Auburn Ave., through Sept. 27. It was sponsored by Ash Grove Cement.

The guest judge was Emily Somoskey, art professor at Whitman College in Walla Walla, Washington.
