Marvin Dean Way November 30, 1929 - January 20, 2022

Marvin Dean Way passed away peacefully at his home in Stanfield, Oregon, on Jan. 20, 2022, at the age ter high school and was an MP in the Korean Conflict. He took over the Way family farm in Lexington after returning from active duty, where he grew hay and raised cattle. He married Norma Ann Robinson on Sept. 1, 1961, and their family grew. They raised their three children on the farm in Lexington: a daughter, Lou Ann, and two sons, Bruce and Mark. Marvin worked at the Kinzua Corporation lumber mill in Heppner and for ODOT until his retirement. He was a member of the Oddfellows IOOF Lodge and the VFW.

Marvin enjoyed the outdoors throughout his life and many a family member has a wooden clock that he skillfully crafted just for them. He was an avid fan of youth sports and could, more often than not, be found attending a local high school sporting event. He excitedly looked forward to the yearly Vinson/Way family reunion, where one could hear his boisterous laugh and many a reminiscent tale about some member of the family's exploits. He never met a stranger he didn't already know. Marvin was preceded in death by his parents, his wife, and his brothers and sisters: June, Stanley, Maxine, Zelma, Joseph, Claude, Bertin, Kenneth and Asa. He is survived by his daughter, Lou Ann Way of Vancouver, Washington, and her son, James; son, Bruce and his wife Charlene of Boise, Idaho, and their daughters, McKenzie and Morgan; and son, Mark and his wife Robin of Stanfield, Oregon.tttt

As per Marvin's wishes no funeral services will be held and any gathering in his memory will be withheld until COVID restrictions are relaxed. Because of his love of the outdoors his family suggests that you plant a tree in his memory.

Wray A. Hawkins, Jr.

August 31, 1949 - January 17, 2022

Wray died peacefully at his home on Jan. 17, 2022, on Butter Creek near Echo, Oregon, on the family farm. Wray was born in Pendleton on Aug. 31, 1949. After he graduated from Helix High School in 1968, where he played football and basketball, Wray joined the U.S. Navy where he quickly found his niche in the submarine corps. He truly enjoyed serving his country and being on a submarine was an experience of a lifetime that he spoke of fondly and often.

In 1975 Wray was honorably discharged from the Navy and found his lifelong passion in farming. Being raised in a farming family it was a natural fit for him and he loved every aspect of growing wheat and helping to feed the world. He often said, "Without us farmers, these poor people would starve to death," and then would break into that unmistakable laugh of his.

Wray had many hobbies that he and his wife, KC, shared. They loved to hunt, fish and go looking for mushrooms while on one of their many camping trips. He was also a wonderful chef and creating a special meal is something he took very seriously. For instance, he took special pride in hosting many Thanksgiving dinners for one of his best friends, and of course in his words, it was always "a masterpiece."

No one had a better sense of humor or enjoyed pulling pranks on his family and friends as much as Wray. For starters he insisted that he and KC get married on Leap Day so he only had to celebrate their anniversary once every four years. Or during harvest if you were new to the crew at some point you were sure to get an unexpected handful of grease from a door handle. It was just his way of saying welcome to the Hawkins harvest crew. He relished being with people and volunteering his time as is evident from his 30-plus years of service to the Pendleton Round-Up.

Wray is survived by the love of his life and his best friend, his wife, KC. He is also survived by his mother and father, Wray Hawkins Sr.; his sister, Debra Shampine (Paul, deceased); his brother, Kelly Hawkins (Pam); his daughter, Alex Shaw (Brian); his son, Blain Hendrickson (Emily); and his stepdaughter, Brandie Cutts; his many cousins,;and his seven grandchildren.

A service will be held later in the spring.

Please make donations to PAWS of Pendleton. Wray loved animals and only wanted the best for all of them.
