National Night Out connects community

By TAMMY MALGESINI
East Oregonian

UMATILLA COUNTY — National Night Out is an initiative developed to encourage people to get out to meet their neighbors. One of its missions is to help promote community partnerships with law enforcement as well as neighborhood camaraderie.
 NNO helps create safer communities as residents become familiar with what's happening in their neighborhoods, said Cpl. Tim Mears, training officer/evidence custodian with the Hermiston Police Department. The event, he said, provides a relaxed atmosphere to interact with law enforcement personnel and other first responders.

Jerry Carlson, city of Stanfield finance director, said NNO is a great way to meet local first responders in a fun social setting. Because Stanfield also provides police services in Echo, the Stanfield celebration is Monday, Aug. 1.

natw.org) is officially Tuesday, Aug. 2. For more than two decades, the Hermiston Police Department has kicked off its festivities in advance with a treasure hunt, which is now underway.
 The Hermiston resident who finds the golden medalion, which is hidden in a small wooden chest, will win a block party in their neighborhood — see the Saturday, July 23 EO for additional information and treasure hunt rules. Clues have been published in both the EO and Hermiston Herald and can be found at www.eastoregonian.com and www.hermistonherald.com. The treasure hunt, Mears said, is a great way to get people excited leading up to National Night Out. In addition to family members participating together, some neighbors have teamed up over the years to discuss the clues and search.

Birds of prey land at local libraries

UMATILLA COUNTY — The Columbia Gorge Discovery Center is bringing its Raptor Program to the Hermiston Public Library and Umatilla Public Library on Friday, July 29.
 The program presents seven raptors that are non-releasable due to injuries they suffered in the wild. The raptors have a forever home at the Columbia Gorge Discovery Center, The Dalles, and also serve as educational ambassadors to teach the public more about their species.
 During these educational presentations, the audience will get an up-close experience with raptors including, falcons, hawks, owls and eagles. The presentation also address the challenges of declining habitat, the hazards of toxic chemicals and the role humans have played in endangering and protecting
