

ARMY COMPROMISE IS HELD POSSIBLE

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Commissioner Catherine Booth, eldest daughter of General Bramwell Booth of the Salvation Army, in an interview tonight suggested that her father's supporters and the high council might yet come to an agreement concerning the administration: General Booth, she said, probably will ask to be represented by counsel when the high council meets tomorrow.

The commissioner expressed the wish that the parties could reach an agreement "which would meet what the council wants, which is really the power to elect the successor of the general."

One of the reasons given for the unwillingness of Bramwell to retire at this time is the agitation, which he believes began in America, for certain changes in the constitution of the Army. The general believes that all officers and soldiers of the Army should be consulted before such changes are made and his injunction petition which blocked the council was said to be an impersonal move.

Reviewing the condition of her father, Catherine said: "They now say it is entirely a question of health and it seems to me they should therefore hear medical experts. It seems a calamity that with all this going around the world they cannot think of some better plan."

The high council met informal-

IMMENSE TIMBER SALE CONSUMMATED

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 31.—(AP)—A timber sale involving in excess of three million dollars, and embracing 26,000 acres of timber lands along the Trask river in the Tillamook district, was announced here today by J. E. Wheeler of the Wheeler timber interests. The land was sold to the Flora Logging company with headquarters at Carlton. Active cutting will commence at once.

The stockholders of the Flora Logging company include Inman-Poulsen Lumber company, the West Oregon Lumber company, Portland; C. H. Miller, Portland; G. H. Grammar, Seattle; George Gardner, Spokane and Joe Flora, Carlton, Oregon.

The timber lands were purchased years ago by J. E. Wheeler and approximately 20,000 acres were consolidated under the ownership composed of members of the Trask Timber company, Wheeler family.

The sale is one of the largest fir timber deals in recent years. While Mr. Miller did not make public the actual price involved, he said it was in excess of three million dollars and that cash payment had been made and accepted.

Negotiations by J. E. Wheeler have been in progress for many months, he said, and the sale was finally consummated at Chicago early in December.

From the proceeds of the now-defunct Northwestern National Bank will receive nearly half a million dollars.

It was the prospect of this sale which induced officers of the Northwestern National to extend an overcredit to J. E. Wheeler, the basis of an indictment of Wheeler and Emery Olmstead, former president of the bank. The bank closed its doors in March, 1927. Indictments were issued against Wheeler and Olmstead and they were convicted on charges of check kiting. Olmstead was sentenced to five years in prison and Wheeler to three years. Their cases are now on appeal.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Wheat acreage buying made wheat values just today, but predictions of relatively warm weather tomorrow would tend to bring that more than wiped price back out. Earlier, the chief factor was that extensive damage to winter wheat would result from severe low temperatures and unprotected fields, especially in Nebraska.

DEAL FORCES LOCAL SHOW HOUSE TO GO

Metropolitan Stores of New York Take Hold in Oregon Building.

Theater Likely to Close April 1; Other Property Included

A deal was consummated Monday whereby the Metropolitan Stores, Inc., of New York City, leased for 80 years from Hawkins & Roberts, floor space of 52 by 140 feet in the Oregon building, at State and High streets. The aggregate of the lease is more than $850,000. With the signing of the lease is sounded the death knell of the old Oregon theater the space now occupied by that theater being included and it is probable that the theater will close up shop around April 1. The Metropolitan stores plan to assume possession to the leased property between April 15 and May 1, of this year. The lease was negotiated through Anderson & Rupert and has been in the air for several weeks.

In addition to the Oregon theater, the lease includes the jewelry store, and also space now occupied by the elevator and the stairway.

The leasing company, which will assume the expense and handling of the remodeling for store purposes. They will have a daylight store, as in the Oregon building, from the second story up there is a large court, the building making an L around it. This court is over the ceiling of the Oregon theater, and this will be cut through and skylights installed which will light the entire store space.

Hawkins & Roberts will install a new stairway and elevator for the Oregon building. The space now occupied by Mme. Buffe with a woman's shop will give way for a new elevator and stairway. The elevator will be the most modern attainable, and both elevator and stairs will run to the roof. A handsome lobby will be created with a marble base, rubber tiled floors and finished in ornate style, and a modern stairway will also be put in. The lease will make the situation much more advantageous for the tenantry in the upper floors of the building, as well as being a distinct merchandising addition to that section of State street.
