Submarine Tests Will Be Extended

ABOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND OFF KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Having proved in a series of tests that man, by using a safety device, can escape without outside aid from a submarine sunk at depths of 40 and 75 feet, naval experts aboard the tender Mallard anchored 11 miles off Key West, prepared tonight to conduct similar experiments at depths greater than 100 feet with the ill-fated S-4.

Using the same rejuvenated undersea craft that was rammed and sunk by a coast guard craft off the New England coast more than a year ago, with the loss of 40 men, naval experts are conducting the present tests near Smith Shoals in an effort to devise the best means possible for making the lives of submarine sailors safer.

After having escaped three times from the submarines yesterday at a depth of 40 feet, Lieutenant C. B. Monson and F. Koloski descended in the craft to the 75 foot depth today and succeeded in making their way safely to the surface, despite a choppy sea. They next will attempt the feat at depths greater than 100 feet.

With white-capped waves breaking over her decks, the S-4 with the two men aboard, setting to the 75 foot depth, while the tender bobbed about on the surface, ready for an emergency. Donning their masks, charged with oxygen, the men flooded the motor room and prepared to make their way through the safety hatch.

Eight minutes after they had descended, the men rose to the surface and were lifted into a waiting surf boat. They let loose a buoy with a rope anchored to the submarine and slid up the line. The rope was necessary because if they ascended too rapidly, they said, the pressure probably would have been fatal.

Lieutenant-commander P. H. Dunbar, in charge of the operations, said the experiments thus far had been even more successful than he had expected and that they would continue until Friday.

Paris Not So Gay As Lights Go Out

PARIS, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Gay and busy Paris was made gloomy and slow moving today because there was no electricity in any part of the city on the right bank except in a few districts. To make matters worse the city was covered by the thickest fog of the winter.

Lad Roused After 23 Days in Coma

OROFINO, Idaho, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Kermit Perkins, 8 year old Welpe, Idaho, lad, aroused himself from a 23 day coma tonight, but observers found his mind apparently was like that of an infant. He hurt his spine and head when he slid crashed into an automobile while he was coasting on January 14.

Dwelling Burns; Icicles Form As Water is Thrown

DALLAS, Feb. 7.—(Special)—A large frame house on Miller avenue belonging to Frank Holman was totally destroyed by fire which broke out about 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, a defective flue being assigned as the cause as the fire started near the roof. The loss will be between $2,000 and $3,000. Four families were living in the house.

The fire department was hampered in its efforts to control the blaze by an inadequate water supply in that part of the city, but nearby buildings were saved, including a large dairy barn only 50 feet from the house.

It was so cold at the time of the fire that the water thrown on the building formed icicles. Nevertheless, almost the entire town turned out to watch the excitement.
