ALL DELUGE SEEMS ENDED

Only Five Measures Make Bow in House; Seven Introduced in Senate

The deluge of bills that poured into the house early in the week now seems definitely over, for but five measures were added Thursday to the few that came in the day before. One of these is regarded as among the top few in interest, for it brings out the long awaited income tax proposal. It was introduced by Carkin of Jackson county.

Another bill is expected to draw its share of debate. This is H. B. 455, introduced by Representative Russell, and it provides drastic legislation against dogs running at large. It is said to be a farmer move designed to lessen the evil of "killer" dogs.

Measures introduced were as follows: Bills introduced in the house Thursday: H. B. 453, by Angell—Providing for appointment of special deputy constables to serve without pay.

H. B. 454, by LaPollett—To amend section 5136, Oregon Laws as amended by chapter 188, General Laws of Oregon, 1925, relating to election of school officers.

H. B. 455, by Russell—Relating to the licensing of dogs, and providing for dog control districts.

Bills introduced in the house Thursday: H. B. 456, by Fisher, Lockhead and Senator Eddy—Authorizing any county court or board of county commissioners to waive or reduce penalty or interest, or both, upon unpaid taxes.

H. B. 457, by Carkin—To provide for a personal income tax with a property offset.

The following new bills were introduced in the senate Thursday: S. B. 115, by Billingsley—Amending statute relating to certification of irrigation district bonds.

S. B. 116, by Norblad—Providing for survey of boundary between Oregon and Washington and appropriating $2500 to cover the cost.

S. B. 117, by committee on livestock—Relating to inspection of cattle and horses to be shipped or driven out of the state.

S. B. 118, by joint committee on livestock—Creates the office of chief deputy traffic officer.

S. B. 119, by Miller—Increasing salary of district attorney of Josephine county from $1500 to $1800.

S. B. 120, by Moser—Amending the bedding inspection law.

S. B. 121, by Corbett et al.—Regulating and controlling billiard parlors.

OPINIONS VARIED ON POULTRY PLAN

Objections to the accrediting work done by the poultry department of Oregon State College, brought before members of the legislature this week, have their source among poultrymen who are not willing to live up to the regulations explained by the department, and resent the fact that others, by complying with these regulations, are enabled to have their flocks and baby chicks accredited, some of the leading poultrymen of the Salem district declared Thursday.

The college has not overstepped its legitimate field in this matter, it was said by some, since it is the only agency in the state equipped for the task and similar programs are carried on in other states.

The accrediting is done on the same basis that seeds, milk and other products are certified, or as hospitals and educational institutions are accredited, the poultrymen explained. The college has not entered the field of marketing. The work that it is doing, was undertaken at the request of leading poultrymen, they added.

Outlaw Dogs Are Object of Attack In House Measure

Drastic legislation, designed to put a stop to sheep killing by dogs in the state, was introduced in the house of representatives Thursday in H. B. 450, by Russell of Yamhill county.

The measure provides for a state license of all dogs, would make "outlaws" of all dogs not licensed, and would make "outlaws" also of dogs found out between sunset and sunrise. These outlaw dogs are to be killed by authorities.

Dog districts, each to be administered by three supervisors who shall serve without pay, are provided in the measure. Each district could hire an officer whose duty it would be to enforce the provisions of the law.

Kimball Students Hear Mrs. Luce

Mrs. E. E. Luce, national field secretary of the Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist church, was speaker at the chapel hour at Kimball School of Theology Thursday. Mrs. Luce is spending two weeks in Oregon giving addresses and inspecting various projects of the missionary society. Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Luce addressed women at the First Methodist church, and Thursday night was speaker at Jason Lee church. Today she will attend a district conference meeting in Portland. She will be accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Canso.

Tonight the Epworth league gives its play "Safety First" in the community hall at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Maxwell of Salem will sing between the acts. The proceeds from the play will be used to pay on the payments on the church carpet which the league recently purchased.

The city council met Monday evening, February 4, with all members present except Mayor C. E. Green. J. A. Gosser took the chair. W. Hill presented a request for permission to erect a gravel bunker near the site of a former one. It provoked quite a discussion. A committee consisting of Jack Summers, Fred Gibson and J. I. Miller was appointed to investigate the matter and report at an adjourned session of the council February 20.

Estimates were submitted for the grading and graveling of Ruge street between McNary and Patterson avenues and Skinner street.

Mrs. Clyde Rodgers of Seio and her two children Claude and Wanda were visitors recently at the home of Mrs. Rodgers' mother, Mrs. S. S. Burk of the River Side Auto camp.

Ed Brock, who was very ill for several months and thought to have fully recovered, is once more confined to his bed, with the same malady as before.

Mrs. Bud Green was taken to the Salem General hospital Wednesday morning for a minor operation. Her friends are hoping for a speedy recovery.

The Ladies Aid held their monthly business meeting at the home of Mrs. S. A. Gosser Wednesday. After a short devotional meeting led by the Rev. M. A. Groves, several items of business were transacted, with Mrs. M. A. Groves, the acting president, in the chair.

Government Camp on Mt. Hood will be easily accessible by automobile for the annual Chemeketa ski and toboggan trip planned for this week-end. Ben Rickl announced Thursday following telegraphic communication with the state highway department and the proprietor of the camp. A double track lane has been cut from Rhododendron to Government camp. Mr. Rickl was informed, and the road is in good condition.

Fifty-five Chemeketa and their friends have registered for the trip, the group to leave Salem Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in a caravan. So far the only difficulty has been in arranging for adequate means of transportation.

Due to the severe weather of the past two Sundays, Chemeketa and others going on the trip will have an additional treat in being able to attend the professional skiing tournament, to be held at Swim this Sunday. Mr. Rickl reports. The tournament had been twice postponed because of weather conditions.

Schedule for the trip calls for arrival of the party at Government camp about 5 o'clock Saturday evening; dinner, assignment, and announcements at 5:30 o'clock; and tobogganing from 7 to 9 o'clock. Skiing and toboggan are planned for early Sunday morning, followed by the trip to Swim from 9:30 to 12:30 o'clock. The group will leave for home 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Roth Will Repeat Salad School; Was Splendid Success

So successful was the Roth grocery salad school, which was concluded here Saturday, that another similar school will be conducted by the store later in the spring, according to C. R. Wade, sales manager. The store was crowded Saturday afternoon to attend the last demonstration of salad preparation and the drawing of a special prize awarded by the firm. "We had such a crowd that women had to use the back door to enter the store," said Mr. Wade.

Scores of varieties of salads were prepared during the week of the school, Salem housewives being invited to contribute their own recipes and to have these prepared without charge by the salad experts.

Senate Agrees to Send Spokesmen

The senate Thursday adopted a resolution by Senators Corbett and Bailey of Multnomah authorizing the appointment of a committee to be composed of two senators and three representatives to confer with railroad officials in Portland on February 9, with relation to faster train service between northwest points and Chicago.

A similar committee has been appointed by the Washington legislature. Senators Corbett and Joe Bailey were appointed as members of the committee by President Norblad.

HOUSE PASSES ONLY 9 BILLS

Lively Debate Aroused by Two Measures in Slow Legislative Day

The house of representatives took it easy again Thursday and passed but nine bills. Four others on the calendar were put over until Friday or Monday.

Two of the measures, H. B. 147 and S. B. 46, aroused some lively debate to live up an otherwise rather drab day in the lower house.

The session struck first on H. B. 147, an amendment measure by Metzker of Columbia county, who sought by his bill to make the records of the state industrial accident commission public. His measure was finally amended to read, "except the pay rolls and other confidential records," and thus was passed.

S. B. 46, that providing for purchasing of auto licenses in July rather than January, passed late in the afternoon. It occasioned some debate, but passed overwhelmingly. Having already made its way through the senate, it now lacks but the governor's signature to make the measure complete.

Bills passed Thursday are as follows: H. B. 127—By Messrs. Carkin and Hamilton and Senator J. O. Bailey—Relating to chapter 4854, as amended by section 1, chapter 276, Laws of 1928, as amended by chapter 215, Laws of 1927, relating to certificates of delinquency.

H. B. 128—By Messrs. Carkin and Hamilton and Senator J. O. Bailey—Relating to chapter 4854, as amended by section 1, chapter 276, Laws of 1928, as amended by chapter 215, Laws of 1927, relating to certificates of delinquency.

H. B. 129—By Joint Multnomah County Delegation—Providing for an additional county seat in the county of Multnomah.

H. B. 130—By Joint Multnomah County Delegation—Providing for an additional county seat in the county of Multnomah.

H. B. 131—By Senator Bailey of Lane—To provide for the cancellation of interest and penalties on delinquent taxes on property acquired by the state of Oregon.

H. B. 132—By Multnomah County Joint Delegation—To amend section 348-51, Oregon Laws, relating to and regulating salaries of constables in districts of 100,000 or more inhabitants.

H. B. 133—By Senator Bennett—To amend section 371, General Laws of Oregon, 1925, by changing date of expiration of automobile registration and providing that renewals shall be made on July 1 instead of January 1 of each year.

Final action on the following was put over until Friday: H. B. 321—By Mr. Malarky—Relating to the election of justices of the supreme court of Oregon.

H. B. 322—By Mr. Logan—Requiring persons, firms or corporations outside the state to be represented by attorneys in fact.

H. B. 323—By Joint Multnomah County Delegation—Relating to the fourth judicial district.

H. B. 324—By Senator Joe E. Dunne—To amend section 295, Oregon Laws, as amended by section 1, chapter 73, General Laws of Oregon, 1925, and section 296, Oregon Laws, as amended by section 2, chapter 73, General Laws of Oregon, 1925, relating to attachments.

SALEM HIGH LEADS IN GROUP DEBATES

Salem high school leads the eight schools in group one of the middle Willamette debate league. It was learned Thursday when reports on Dallas' contents Wednesday night were received in Salem, Dallas, which won both of its first debates to lead the district with 8 points, dropped both debates this week by 2 to 1 counts, which gives the school only 10 points. Salem won both debates and eight points this week, which with the former count gives the local 13 points. Albany now has eight points.

Although Salem debaters may feel pretty confident of themselves following the second round of debates and their victories the contests to be held February 14 are not to be taken lightly, Principal J. C. Nelson feels. At that time the Salem affirmative travels to Dallas and the Corvallis affirmative meets the Salem negative here. Judges for the local debate will be members of the Oregon Normal School faculty, and O. S. C. men will judge the Salem-Dallas contest.

ALLEN URGES SMALL YIELD

Fruit Authority Sees Salvation of Industry in Production Curb

Fruit production in Salem as elsewhere has reached the point where canners must give more consideration to controlling the supply, rather than increasing the demands, W. G. Allen, manager of Hunt Brothers' cannery here, told the Salem Realty board Thursday noon in speaking on conditions of the industry.

Growth of the fruit and canning industry until one of Salem's largest canneries is starting a campaign to reduce production has been largely due to a boom condition following the tremendous prune program of the earlier 90's, followed in turn by other fruits, Mr. Allen pointed out. The real business of the industry, he added, must be built upon the wreck of the boom conditions.

In 1911, just 30,000 cans of fruit were packed in Salem; in 1928, the total pack of the six canneries here reached 1,400,000 cans.

Brings Other Problems—In addition to curtailment of production, the heavy supplies of fruit have brought other problems to the canner, chief of which is new methods of preserving. Mr. Allen told how his house had experimented and is experimenting successfully with the cold storage of fruits, or maintenance of low temperature that germs cannot function. Through the cold storage method, fruits which easily lose their flavor are handled more successfully, the better product thus opening new channels of demand. Cold storage packing of strawberries has been notably successful from the standpoint of consumer.

"Within the last three years, the berry pack has increased from 35,000 to 92,000 barrels, with a consequent decline in price from 13 cents of three years ago to six cents. At the present price, here is no profit, Mr. Allen asserted. Further, England has cut her loganberry imports from the United States one-half in the last three years and there is a noticeable slipping in the loganberry demand in this country, he said.

Under the production curtailment of the local canner, effort will be made to induce growers to cut the berry canes back severely, thus building for better quality and size and eventual competition with northern berries which are no more in demand.

E. A. Kurtz, now associated with the Grabenhorst Realty company, and a Mr. and Mrs. Haggit, Portland realtors, were guests at the luncheon.
