

WHAT WE LEARNED FROM READING THIS WEEK’S PAPER
VOL. 41, ISSUE 19.

Anyone you know who works at OHSU may be doing terrible things to monkeys right now and you will never know about it. 6

The desks of administrators at César Chávez School are squeaky clean thanks to pint-sized janitors. 7

The cheapest place to rent an Airbnb in Portland is Lents. Also, someone in Lents is operating an Airbnb. 11

ON THE COVER:

Pickle farm photographed by Cameron Browne.

There’s an entire herd of elk walking around Portland. 12

Soon, you may be able to eat raw kangaroo meat for brunch on Southeast Clinton Street. 20

Wackness has an age. 27

The State Department is really slow to issue visas to pretend Pakistani terrorists. 41

One tiny Washington city couldn’t pay its bills until it decided to get into the weed business. 51

OUR MOST TRAFFICKED
STORY ONLINE
THIS WEEK:

A local man believes he discovered a $134 million scam while playing video poker at Quimby’s.
