A SAILOR described a young woman who was addicted to tight lacing, as being too small in the waist to work well in stays.

TRUSTEN POLK, once Senator from Missouri, has been pardoned and restored to all his rights and immunities.

Mr. BOWLES thinks that Oregon is to be the New England of the West. It is more likely to become the Missouri of the Pacific.

It is thought that the railroad massacres at the East may be designed to reduce the number of travelers to the capacity of the roads.

THE lack of interest in religious matters at the East is attributed to political preaching. Politics and religion will not mix, however much they are agitated.

WATERFALLS are going out of fashion. They were the invention of a hair-brained woman, and never ought to have been in fashion.

THE Weekly Oregonian has completed its Fifteenth Volume. Its publisher, Mr. Pittock, is deserving of a very liberal support for his energy in making that journal what it now is—a good newspaper.

Two robbers lately stopped a man on Burnt River, who had five dollars. They returned him the money with an admonition to carry more money in future, as they would not deal so lightly with him a second time.

THADDEUS STEVENS' proposal to evict the holders of nine-tenths of the Southern lands, is not endorsed by any respectable portion of the Union party. Thaddeus appears to have the intellect of a gorilla and the instincts of a hyena.

GEN. CARL SCHUMER says that he has been on a tour through the South, and has seen no basis for the re-construction of the Union. He is another individual whose opinions are of but little value at this time.

THE Mining and Scientific Press says that there "no special cause for alarm" about earthquakes at San Francisco. At the time of the shocking affair some weeks since, the writer probably thought differently.

THERE is a great increase of English tourists the present year in the United States over any that has preceded it. Much curiosity is manifested by men of leisure in the British Isles to know more of our country, and hence the increase of travel through it.

PEN D'OREILLE ROUTE AGAIN.—It appears as if there is to be a steamer put on the Pen d'Oreille Lake, anyhow. Mr. Davidson left this place yesterday morning for Wallula, to procure transportation for the machinery and supplies requisite to carry out the scheme.

SKIRMISH WITH INDIANS.—On the first of October Capt. Williams, with twelve men, attacked an Indian camp on Silva River, in Harney Lake Valley, and killed one Indian. He then destroyed a considerable quantity of fish stored in the camp.

THE Oregonian thinks "it would be an unspeakable calamity to Oregon for those persons who arrayed Missouri in rebellious arms against the Government, to succeed in obtaining power here." It would be a calamity rather hard to describe, and consequently we shall not attempt to do it.

ELLEDALE WOOLLEN MILL.—The Company owning this new enterprise near Dallas, Polk county, says the Democrat of the 4th inst., have increased their capital stock to $20,000. Machinery to replace that lost on the Brother Jonathan has been sent for, and it is expected the mill will be in operation in about three months.

THE ADMINISTRATION POLICY OF RECONSTRUCTION.

It was universally conceded at the beginning of our civil struggle that the United States did not make war on the Confederate States to acquire new power in the southern section of the Union, but to vindicate rights expressed in the Constitution. No circumstance has since occurred, except the effect of war on the institution of African slavery, which in any manner affects the measure of rights and powers, which respectively inure to the General Government, and the governments of the various States. The theory of our Government is such that the States must all be equal in the Government, or the laws cannot be fairly executed. There cannot be one rule for South Carolina and another for Massachusetts, and the attempt to institute such distinctions must, sooner or later, result in war—terrible and desolating war.

The offenses of secessionists in the late war were against the General Government, and not against the States. The pardon of offenders against the National Government places them in a position of innocence as against anything which any State may enact. What is now called pardon is simply amnesty, or oblivion. Amnesty precedes conviction, in a general way, and pardon, in a legal sense, can only be given after conviction is procured. The ex-rebels who are now experiencing the clemency of the President are receiving amnesty for their offenses against the laws of the nation, or, to define it fully, their offenses are oblivious in the eyes of the law. Legally, they are in precisely the same condition as if they had never rebelled, and on this account are made eligible to all offices of honor, profit or trust.

The President, it seems, has deemed it proper to throw the mantle of oblivion over the acts of many, not to say most, of the leading ex-rebels. He has, in this matter, carried out the often repeated declaration of the people of the non-seceding States, that if the people of the South would come back to the Union, they should have a heart-warm welcome. Says Mr. Seward to a foreign ambassador, "Sir, if the South will come back to us, we will surprise the world by the generosity with which her people shall be treated." These, it is well known, were the sentiments of Mr. Lincoln, into whose heart the base passion of revenge never crept.

In accordance with the sentiments of magnanimity and generosity, which should ever be the ruling traits of a brave and great people, Mr. Johnson has judiciously dispensed the healing influences of mercy to the Southern people, at the same time tempering it with justice to the wicked and depraved. By his conduct he has won the entire confidence of the people of the South, and while he has done thus much, no man, void of the miserable prejudice of sectionalism, can say that he has in any manner compromised the honor and interests of the non-seceding States of Union.

His project of reconstruction was never meant for an "experiment;" it was intended to be carried into execution with all the vigor he can infuse into it. There is no earthly probability that it will be retracted or materially modified. It then only remains for those who indorse the present project to come up to its support with a will. No weak and uncertain support will meet the requirements of the case. If the Union organization, without hypocrisy, endorses the President in his work of beneficence, it can command the votes of the vast majority of the inhabitants east of the Cascades, beyond question. Without this is done freely and cheerfully, the battle will be a hard one. As far as the eastern district is concerned, it is beyond dispute the sentiment of the Union party to endorse the conduct of the President, and to follow his acts out to their logical consequences.

BONDS FOR SMUGGLING.—The Statesman observes that the steamer Pacific is under bonds for smuggling, for $225,000; the Orizaba for $125,000, and the Active for $66,000, making a total of $416,000. Bonds have been exacted from different officers attached to these ships for enough more to make an aggregate of $458,000. All three of these craft are regularly plying in the trade to Oregon and Victoria, awaiting the decision of the Treasury Department.

MASS MEETING.—A mass meeting of the Union voters of Wasco County will be held at the Court House, on Monday next, to nominate a candidate to fill the vacancy in the Fifteenth Representative District. Information received from the Union men of Grant County, who will participate in the special election, is to the effect that they look to this County to put forward a candidate, and that he will receive the same energetic support from them as if he had been nominated in a convention regularly constituted. The shortness of the time before the election, renders it necessary to dispense with formalities, and to heartily work without any other organization than that which exists, or can speedily be improvised. A full attendance is requested, and it is now, as much as ever, a duty for true Union men to be awake to the duties of the times. At no time in the past have more serious dangers threatened the public weal than at the present. The open machinations of destructive radicals and treacherous peace demagogues, threaten to defeat the beneficent schemes of the National Administration for the reconstruction of our National Government. If the Administration has any real friends, it is time that they fully and freely declared themselves such, and by a timely initiative give a popular direction to public sentiment, and maintain the unity of the party for the sake of the State and Nation.
