PLACERS NEAR VANCOUVER.—The Register states that gold has been found ten miles north of Vancouver, in what is supposed to be paying quantities. One piece has been found weighing about a pennyweight. It was in the same neighborhood that gold was found in 1860, and it is possible that paying placers exist in the foot-hills of the Cascades Range for a great distance north. There are gravel deposits on both branches of Hewis River, which seem adapted to afford employment to Chinese miners. On the north branch, particularly, at a distance of about fifty miles from Vancouver, gold was found to pay at the rate of $3 and $4 a day to the man, in the year 1853. The tools and cradles used in gold-washing are yet cached a short distance above the mouth of Spil-eyi Creek, near the line of high water. It seems improbable, however, that rich mines of considerable extent, or a regular belt of gold-bearing country, should exist in a country where so much prospecting has been done. As early as 1849 some pretty heavy prospecting was done to the north of Mount St. Helens, with about the same result as on Lewis River. There lived, within five years, on Lewis River, an Indian who had a tradition about an immensely rich quartz lode on the head of the Kalama. Being shown a piece of gold, he said that if that was closh chickamin he knew where there was plenty of it; but after making a raise of a new blanket and several bottles of whisky, on the strength of the prospect, he mysteriously disappeared, and was not heard of for some years, when it turned out that he had been telling the same story about the country to various parties with the apparent design of levying contributions on the credulous and excitable.

STRANGE LIGHT.—A bright light, says the Statesman of the 12th inst., was seen from various parts of Polk county, on the night of Friday the 3d inst., in a direction a little south of west from Bethel. It lasted from 8 to 9 1/2 o'clock, and was estimated to have been from thirty to fifty miles distant. It is thought that it may possibly have been the conflagration of a vessel at sea. It does not seem possible that at this wet season there could have been any extensive fire in the mountains, and there are no settlements in that direction west of Fort Yamhill and Grand Ronde Agency, from both of which points the light was seen by several persons.
