FACTS AND FANCIES.

In the report of a down east agricultural fair occurs the following: "Best bed comforter—Miss Mary Hall."

DANIEL Webster used to say that the word "would" in Rufus Choate's hand writing, resembles a small gridiron struck by lightning.

Mr. Quibble, reading that "it has been decided in the Court of Queen's Bench, in Dublin, that a clergyman of the Church of England can legally marry himself," observed that that might be very well as a measure of economy, but that even in the hardest times he should prefer to marry a woman.

HERE is the pithiest sermon ever preached.

"Our ingress in life is naked and bare;—our progress through life is trouble and care;—our egress out of it we know not where—but doing well here we will do well there—I could not tell more by preaching a year.

HARD ON CRINOLINE.—A country chap, who recently visited San Francisco for the first time, gave his views of the ladies in the following way:

"Somewhars in every circumstance of silk and velvet that wriggles along there is allus a woman, I s'pose, but how much of the holler is filled with meat, and how much is gammon, the spectator dun no. Ef men is gay deceivers, wot's to be said of the female that dresses for a hundred and forty weight, but hasn't reely as much fat as would grease a griddle—all the apparent plumpness consisting of cotton whalebone.

A PITHY DIALOGUE.—Richardson, correspondent of the Tribune writing from California, alludes to the new words and phrases in use in the "far west," and by way of illustration becomes responsible for the following: 'There is a story of a burglar who at midnight climbed up to a chamber window and cautiously opened it. The occupant, happening to be awake, crept softly to the window, and just as the robber's face appeared pressed against it the cold, smooth muzzle of a revolver, with the injunctions, "You git!" "You bet!" replied the robber, dropping to the ground and running for his life.
