PACTS AND FANCIES

POWER OF IMAGINATION .- A wealthy lady had a tickling in her throat and thought that a bristle of her toothbrush had gone down her gullet and lodged there. Her throat daily grew worse. It was badly inflamed and she sent for the family doctor. He examined it carefully, and assured her that nothing was the matter—it was a mere nervous delusion, he said. Still, her throat troubled her, and she be-came so much alarmed that she was sureshe would die. A friend suggested she should call in Dr. Jones a young man just commoncing practice. She did not at first like the idea, but finally consented, and Dr. Jones was called. He was a person of good address and polite manners. He looked carefully at her throat, asked her several quetions as to the sensation at the seat of the alarming malady, and finally announced that he thought he could re' lieve her in a short time.

On his second visit he brought with him a delicate pair of forceps, in the teeth of which he had inserted a bristle taken from an ordinary tooth-brush. The rest can be imagined. The lady threw back her head; the forceps were carefully introduced into her mouth; a pick, a loud scream, and it was all over; and the young physician, with a smiling face, was holding up to the light and inspecting, with lively curiosity, the extracted bristle. The patient was in raptures. She immediated ly recovered her health and spirits. and went about everywhere, sounding the praises of " her savior," as she presisted in calling the dexterous operator.

JOSH BILLINGS ON LAFFING .- Laffing is strikly amuzement, altho some folks make a bizzeness ov it.

It haz bin considered an index ov charakter, and there is som ,so closs at reasoning that they say they kan tell what a man had for dinner bi seein him laff.

I never saw two laff alike.

While there are som who don't make enny noiza, there are sum who don't make anything but noize-and sum, again, who have musik in their laff, and others who laff just az a rat duz who haz kaught a steel-trap with his tale

There is no mistake in the assershun that it iz a cumfurt to hear sum laffs that cum romping out ov a man's mouth-like a distrik school ov young girls just let out to play.

Men who never laff have no good hearts, but they are deep seated like sum springs, they have their inlet and outlet from below, and show no spark-ling bubble on the brim.

I don't like a giggler; his laff is like the dandylion, a broad yeller, and not a bit of good smell about it.

It iz true that enny kind of a laff if it is honest, is better than none; but give me the laff that looks out of a man's eyes, fust, to see of the coast iz clear, then steals down into the dimples of his cheeks and rides in an eddy thare awbile, then waltzes a spell at the corners ov his month, like a thing ov life, then bursts its bonds ov beauty and fills the air for a moment with a shower ov silver-tongued sparks, then steals bak with a smile to its lair in the heart to watch again for its prey-this iz the kind of a laff that I like and aint atraid ov.
