WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 18, 1866.

THIRTEEN men were hung for murder in different parts of the United States, on Friday the 12th ult.

MRs. DAY recently gave birth to four children in Indiana. Verily, who can tell what a day may bring

THERE are said to be 70,000 rebel soldiers buried at Holly Wood and Oak Wood Cemeteries near Rich-

THE MINING EMIGRATION. - Our Eastern exchanges are filled with items regarding the departure of boats and trains for the mining regions, and all concur in the opinion that the omigration across the plains this season will be larger than any year since 59. The Nevada papers also chronicle the departure of a large number of miners for the mining regions of Owyhee and Montana.

In ARTICULO MORTIS.-We are informed that the Democratic physicians of Portland met in secret consultation some time last week, to see what could be done for the poor sick Herald. For once, doctors did not disagree. After wise and mature deliberation they pronounced the disease fatal, as, the cavity usually occupied by brain is partly full of a thin serous fluid resembling butter milk, which exudes by the teaspoonful at every gasp of the patient.

A PARTY of 41 California volunteers and 25 citizens, under Major Smith, had a seven hour Indian fight in Surprise Valley, Cal., on March 17th, which sums up as follows: Loss to the enemy 80 warriors and 35 squaws. The latter were dressed the same as backs and were fighting, and had to be killed to ascertain their sex. Recovered sixty horses; captured nine squaws and ten children, who were afterwards turned loose, and destroyed three tons of dried meat. The loss on the side of the whites were one soldier killed, and Major Smith and six privates wounded. Would we had a few such detachments on the Canyon City road.

GEN. GRANT'S OPINION OF SENATOR NESMITH.-In a letter received by an officer of the army, stationed at Fort Boise, from Lieut. Gen. Grant, and which is published in the Idaho States. man, we find the following high tribute paid Senator Nesmith, by the Commanding General of the armies of the United States :

I am glad to say that our representatives from the far off Pacific coast. se far as I have observed their course, bave done nothing to give comfort to aiders in rebellion. Particularly is this the case with Nesmith, of Oregon, with whom I have more personal acquaintance than the others, and have therefore watched closer. He has been the particular friend of the army, both regular and volunteer, and has, if I am not mistaken, sustained every measure intended to overthrow rebellion and sustain the Union of all the States. Oregonians may congratulate themselves on having in the nettonal conneils such a representative. THE CANYON CITY ROAD.

In our issue of Saturday last we published the proceedings of a meeting of our citizens, and stated that a committee of three had gone to Fort Vanconver to wait upon General Steele and lay before him the need of immediate military protection. The committee deputed one of their number to present to Gen. Steele a written statement of the condition of this road, its importance, its cost, and its dangers. Mr. Catley, who was selected to perform this duty, returned last night. He informs us that on Monday be had a short interview with the General, and that while he was listento with apparent interest, the result of his visit to say the least, is very unsatisfactory.

The General stated that he had no troops which he could put upon the road at present; that Gen. Halleck, the Division Commander, had given orders which would occupy all the troops now in or expected to come to this Department. The two companies of cavalry now at Vancouver will go to Boise as soon as they can be mounted and equipped, and probably will go over the Canyon City road .-This was the most that the General could promise. Gen. Grant had told-Gen. Steele, previous to the latter's departure for this coast, that a whole regiment of cavalry would be sent to this-department, and in that event a sufficient number could probably be spared to keep the Canyon City road open; ustil then, it was likely we would have to look for protection to the cavalry now at Watson, and a company of infantry to come to Watson from Camp Wright, which is to be abandoned.

Now, then, what is to be done? These outrages are daily becoming more frequent. Shall travel be entirely interrupted? Already, many who would have gone to the John Day mines have been detained by the dangers of the route, and gone elsewhere; and in consequence this great source of our local prosperity is in a measure lying undeveloped. Our citizens had hoped that Mr. Catley's visit to Vancouver would have resulted in some immediate action for our relief, and all express disappointment, and reiterate the assertion, "something must be done!".

Well, what shall it be? Some say petition our delegation in Congress, but that is too slow-we want it now. Others, raise a bounty fund, and give those who will risk their lives to rid us of these enemies all the horses and stock they may capture from the Pridians, in addition to a certain sum for every scalp. Some, arm a picked company of Warm Spring Indians and turn them loose with the same license. For our parts, we are at a loss what to suggest. Either the developing of this part of our country must cease, or these outrages must cease. Which shall it be? Something must be done!

WE see by the Montana Post that Acting Governor Meagher, is determined to remove every Union man from office in Montana Territory. His last act was the removal of the Auditor and Treasurer. What the cause of these removals were, of course we have no means of knowing. The Post says that all Union men in office knew well the fate in store for them when the Legislature met.

CIRCUIT COURT PROCEEDINGS .- Court began at 1 o'clock p. m. Monday. The Sheriff was ordered to summon sixteen additional jarors to fill up the panel. Attorneys present: Wait, Humason, Denny, Meigs, Gehr, Haft and Gates. The docket at the commencement of the term was composed of 21 criminal, 25 law, and 6 equity causes. At the close of session on Tuesday, the business transacted was:
