FACTS AND FANCIES.

A model of Capt. Cole's tripod masts has been shown at Lloyd's. It does away with shrouds and stays, as the mast is supported by two smaller ones. The advantages claimed are as follows: saving of wear and tear of ropes, improved ventilation of ship, and increased speed. Quicker voyages may be made, in consequence of a vessel fitted with these masts being able to sail closer to the wind. The masts may be as readily cut away as wooden ones.

Of all the "smart" instances of Yankee ingenuity, perhaps the smartest is the trick played upon the authorities of New Brunswick, after their recent offer of three dollars for the snout of every bear killed within the colony. A large number of snouts were recently brought in, chiefly by Indians, but in course of time it was discovered that most of the trophies were imitations only, curiously manufactured of India rubber and gutta percha, by clever manipulators in the State of Maine, who sold them to the Indians at a half a dollar each.

A sophist, wishing to puzzle Thales, one of the wisest men of Greece, proposed to him in rapid succession these difficult questions: What is the oldest of all things? God, because he always existed. What is the most beautiful? The world, because it is the work of God. What is the greatest of all things? Space, because it contains all that is created. What is the quickest of all things? Thought, because in a moment it can fly to the end of the universe. What is the strongest? Necessity, because it makes men face all the dangers of life. What is the most difficult? To know yourself. What is the most constant of all things? Hope, because it still remains with man after he has lost everything else.

A traveler called lately, at nightfall, at a farmer's house in Alabama; the owner being from home, and the mother and daughter being alone, they refused to lodge the traveler.

"How far, then," said he, "is it to a house where a preacher can get lodging?"

"Oh! if you are a preacher," said the lady, "you can stop here."

Accordingly he dismounted, deposited his saddle-bags in the house, and led his horse to the stable. Meanwhile the mother and daughter were debating the point as to what kind of a preacher he was.

"He cannot be a Presbyterian," said one, "for he is not well dressed enough."

"He is not a Methodist," said the other, "for his coat is not the right cut for a Methodist."

"If I could find his hymn-book," said the daughter, "I could soon tell what sort of a preacher he is."

And with that she thrust her hand into the saddle-bags, and pulling out a flask of liquor, she exclaimed, "La! mother, he's a hard-shell Baptist."
