

Daily Mountaineer.

SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 22, 1866.

WANTED.

A BOY TO WORK IN THIS OFFICE. No boy taken for less than one year.

THE Orizaba advertises to sail from Portland to-morrow at 6 o'clock, p. m.

THE Montana had not arrived at Portland when the Cascades left yesterday morning.

We are under obligations to Hon. E. D. Holbrook, Delegate from Idaho, for Congressional favors.

PUBLIC SCHOOL.—We are requested to state that the Dalles Public School will open again on Tuesday next, the 24th inst.

The Portland folks are talking about the expediency of having a paid fire department. This is what might be called putting on metropolitan airs.

We noticed Captain W. B. Hughes, U. S. A., among the passengers who came up yesterday. Captain H. has many friends at the Dalles, who will welcome him back again.

THE POLITICAL CANVASS.—According to the appointments as published in the Herald, the candidates for Congress will address the people of the Dalles on the 5th of May next, and the gubernatorial candidates will speak here on the 18th of May. The candidates for Secretary of State accompany the would-be Congressmen, and will speak at the same time and place.

A COWARDLY ACT.—Capt. Burns of the steamer Orizaba has been arrested and brought before the City Recorder of Portland, charged with an assault upon D. C. Ireland, Esq., local editor of the Oregonian, for which offence the Court fined Capt. B. $50. We have not much space to devote to this or kindred matters, but we desire to say our little say, and it is this: We know Mr. Ireland well, and have known him for years—he is a gentleman, in every sense of the term, and all we want to know about any man is that he approves of so cowardly an attack as the evidence in this case proves it to have been. Yet there is, we are sorry to say, a crowd in Portland who are gloating over this dirty deed, and even trying to make political capital out of it, as they do of every dirty thing.

WHITE BLUFFS ROUTE.—A large train of miners fitted up in our city yesterday, and started for Blackfoot via White Bluffs. Our people certainly cannot regret the efforts they have made to bring this route to the notice of the public; for while it is all that they have represented it to be, the public would never have come to the knowledge of its merits except slowly, and too late to have been any great benefit to our locality. Probably three hundred miners have purchased their outfits at the Dalles, this spring, who would have gone further up the river before leaving it, had not this route been brought to their notice. We hope these manifestly beneficial results will have their proper effect upon our people, and that hereafter they will be as ready to perceive, and as willing to spend a little something to develop anything which can legitimately be made tributary to our local prosperity.

FOSSIL REMAINS.

Below we publish an interesting communication in relation to the discovery of some fossil remains in this vicinity:

Dalles, April 21, 1866.

ED. MOUNTAINEER.—Permit me, through the columns of your paper, to inform that portion of the public who are curious in regard to the remains of the natural history of the pre-historic age, that Col. Fulton and myself took this morning from a newly-washed gully, in the hills near Ten Mile creek, from its long resting place, some eight or ten feet below the natural surface of the earth, a huge tusk, six feet long and twenty-three inches in circumference at the large end, but it has been, to all appearance, considerably shortened by decay. While taking out the aforesaid tusk, another was found within a few rods of the same spot, about sixteen feet beneath the surface of the earth, much larger than the first; but not having time to take it out at once its length and dimensions generally are yet undetermined. On returning from the scene of the discovery of these tusks, another was found near by, of about the size of the largest of those mentioned above.

A few days ago, at about a mile from the place where our discoveries were made, a large piece of a tusk was found projecting from a gravel-bank at the depth of twenty five feet from the natural surface of the ground.

Quite a number of fragments of bones of the gigantic animals once inhabiting this country have been found in the vicinity of those last found; and when we have succeeded in extracting from the earth the remains already mentioned, we will report more fully; and very soon these mementoes of early times will be added to the already interesting collection of the Rev. Mr. Condon of your city, who will take pleasure in exhibiting them to those who are interested in natural history.

L. L. ROWLAND.

WOOLEN FACTORY AT THE DALLES.

This subject is being agitated by our people again. Why there should not be something of the kind here we cannot see. We have everything necessary—a fine grazing country, a climate peculiarly adapted to sheep-raising and wool-growing, and the best of water-powers wasting itself daily at our very doors. Every real estate owner's property would be enhanced in value if one were built, and there would be an end of sending one of our most valuable products away, to buy and bring it back again in the shape of clothes, flannels and blankets. If taken hold of by the proper persons there could be no failure; and our local prosperity would be stimulated in proportion. Let us see a movement in this matter immediately, and let those who think well of this enterprise not forget that if they do not move, somebody somewhere else will. Let us be the first town east of the mountains to have a good woolen factory, and establish a good wool market at the Dalles.

CIRCUIT COURT.—In the case of Williams vs. Ward, the jury rendered a verdict in favor of Williams for $100 and costs of suit.

The trial of the negro Thompson, charged with an assault with intent to commit a rape, resulted in a verdict of guilty. In the case of the State against Buchanan charged with cattle stealing, a verdict of guilty was rendered. Thompson and Buchanan will receive their sentences on Tuesday next.

The Court will probably continue in session three or four days yet.

RAFFLE.—The boys had a jolly time last night at the Jackson Saloon, raffling for a beautiful meerschaum pipe valued at forty dollars. It was won by Louis Davenport, who threw 42.

The City Council met last night. Among other business transacted they passed an ordinance directing the City Recorder to assess the City for taxation for current year. The ordinance will be published in our next issue.
