"P. BENSON, SR."—A very clever and amusing correspondent writes over that signature to the Song Messenger of the North West, published monthly at Chicago, Ill., by Root & Cady, and which costs only 60 cents a year. From one of his recent letters we clip the following:—"Thair is sed to be a roomer of a report heer that Jef. Davis is goin crazy. I shood think he dot to go crazy or any other man which wood abuse his wipbe by wairing her clothes, leavin her with hardly ennt to protect her from the inchnentey of the salobrious breezes of the fierce summer air. She mite hev easy cot a cold or a few teethache, or if she was inclined that way she mite hev cot ber deth of phthipisic.

The uther day i met a erring uthern brothering and sez i to him, i remarked, "How du you do?" He was perocizing a noosepaper and he looked up at me with I i, whilst the uther continyoud to read, and sez he to me, whilst the lite of his opticle i beemed eam and cereen upon me, sez he 'du what?' Evidentee he didnt comperryhend me. I sea he looked droopy in spirits and i endeavored to cheer him by remarkin to him sez i 'iz it a good kunty in the suthern confederacy for raizin strobberys and kreen?' He rased his hand to demolish a missekeytoe which was anxiously serewtizin hes countenance and sez he, 'yoobed damnd.' I spose he was addees in the missekeytoe.

I turned square round so that he could hev a fool vue of mi boozem pin and komment singen in mi mouet insinyouaton stile my grate song of 'richmond is took.' Overcum by fond emotion of pheelings i closed mi eyes shut, stuck my two thumbs in the arm hoals of my jacket and poured 4th a stream of hekwid malady sitch as cel dum talk to the lot of mortal man to heer. When I had conkluded and finished i unclosed my eyes open, and looked upon the man but he wuzent there. The power of that mewaic wuz so grate that it must hev anighthighlayted him.
